Protocol extracts from the Menetekel protocols of 1959 - 1975

Theme : In the service of science

: Part 3: Years 1967 to 1971

The following texts were compiled by the Medialen Friedenskreis, Berlin (MFK), a Christian / spiritual group, between 1959 and 1975. We are not dealing with the usual psychic transmissions from the group here, but with a specialised formulation within the field of psycho-science.

Preface by the editor

August Messer, Professor of Philosophy, expresses his personal and Germany's general point of view in regards to occult phenomena, in his works called "Scientific Occultism" by writing:

"Based on my studies of occult literature as well as my own observations I have come to the conclusion that occult apparitions, at least to some extent, are so well documented that one can assert their reality and genuineness with good reason. They should at least be taken more serious by the representatives of our sciences and this to a much higher degree than has been the case up to now. They should become a subject of scientific analysis.

Abrupt rejections and arrogant ignorance will not promote the issue!

We have to overcome this state of affairs here in Germany also because pundits are in danger of damaging or even losing their scientific reputation if they open-mindedly analyse occult processes or even come to the conclusion that they are genuine."

Prejudices do not stem from knowledge!

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

January 1967

The sciences unfortunately made the mistake of rejecting certain insights and to replace them with mistakes even though these insights were correct in the first place. This fact also applies to possession, which is called “schizophrenia” (split personality) these days. Just how many people are affected by possession cannot be ascertained. Anyhow, it is a distressingly high number and one has to consider these people to be severely ill. Possessions were correctly assessed in the past, namely:

- The control of a human being through alien INTELLIGENCES (spirits).

The sciences assume these days that they are dealing with a malfunction of the brain, something that has nothing to do with spirits. We like to comment here that all spiritual experiences speak against this. The psychiatrist Dr. Wickland, USA gained excellent reconnaissance results with his spiritual circle. One should take his works serious, because it is correct in all its details.

- The possessed are really to be pitied, because the cause of their suffering is not understood. They can therefore not be treated correctly.

There are naturally also cases amongst these case where one is actually dealing with a kind of split personality. We are however still dealing with a type of phantom, but one that is triggered by the patient him or herself. These phantoms are connected to the subconscious of the patient.

- The creation of such phantoms is not a random occurrence, they are created and also controlled by the patient.
- The exact opposite applies in cases of genuine possessions, namely that the POSSESSION SPIRIT controls the patient. A POSSESSION SPIRIT is absolutely independent.

To find out just who controls whom is the task of the doctor. Only an exact diagnosis can reveal whether he is dealing with a possession or whether it is actually a case of schizophrenia. The treatment is extremely difficult in both cases. We had an opportunity to discuss this with our otherworldly GUIDES. Result:

- Almost all possessions are due to evil spirits. Their maliciousness can be very serious.

When diagnosing possessions one is all too ready to talk about “religious deliriousness”. The religious character of a possession is most of the time a steadfast indication that one is dealing with otherworldly spirits. Their tricks are almost always the same. We are dealing with a suggestive subordination of the medium, ergo the patient. Pious mediums are preferably utilised. The spirits call themselves “angels” or “Christ”, well they even pretend to be “God”. A certain degree of illogic as well as religious gullibility, that is to say, Christian religious submissiveness, the kind demanded from Churches and sects, are to blame for such a catastrophe.

Possession starts with telepathy between the patient and an otherworldly human being. One can however also be dealing with a number of them. If the medium is obliging, it will be dominated in all kinds of ways. It will receive assignments and commands. If the medium resists, threats are made immediately, like for instance: “Are you prepared to disobey God?” We find the same appearance of a possession in the Bible, the difference being that it has been incorrectly interpreted there.

Genesis Chapter 22, Verse 2:

“Take your son”, God said “your only son, Isaac, whom you love so much and go to the land of Moriah. There is a mountain that I will show you, offer him as a sacrifice to me,”

Only logic can put an end to such possessions. But a change of locality is also necessary.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

March 1967

There are enough people on Earth that did not obtain their belief in the hereafter from books, but found out through pure self-experience. But those that talk about this have good reason to fear being locked up in a secured mental institution. This is why the general public only hears very little and erroneously believes that hardly anything happens in this respect.

- If every human being would talk about their own spiritual self-experiences, the world would be absolutely flooded with such accounts.

One is more inclined to talk about this in countries where the threat of being put in a lunatic asylum does not loom. This is the reason why a general belief in ghosts and spirits comes to the fore, like for instance in Africa or in Asia etc.

- Here with us, in a civilised world, a general belief in spirits cannot disseminate, because all and sundry are careful when it comes to publicly relinquishing their experiences with spirits.

Things are a little more relaxed in England. People do not make fun of this in England, they only do so in other countries where something like this allegedly doesn't happen. But spirit beings neither worry about nationality nor specific countries. They agitate wherever they like and wherever the opportunity exists, ergo in Germany and its neighbouring nations also.

- The sciences come to the wrong conclusion when they believe that Europeans are spared from experiencing spiritual phenomena, because one only rarely hears about such things.

Doctors, psychologists and lunatic asylums are at any rate a hindrance in the path of the spiritual movement. One should however differentiate between what's pathological and what's healthy. Academic science does not have sufficient experience to determine this. This is where private initiatives are ahead of science.

All our readers would know that the people in Africa or the South Seas that engage in cults of the spirits are regarded crazy to a certain extent. This is a cardinal mistake! Most contacts with the world of the hereafter are genuine, but the cult itself is unnatural and Europeans think that it is ridiculous. Native tribes do however have a far better relationship to the hereafter in spite of this. According to the LAW of EQUALITY (each to his own) they can unfortunately only entertain contact with the lower regions.

Statistical enquiries were made in Europe in order to establish just what percentage of the population had occult experiences. The numbers were pretty high. But the real percentage is probably a lot higher, as the majority of those interviewed keep quiet in this respect.

When a psycho-scientific congress takes place in Germany one can observe that the theological fraternity finds such a congress undesirable. Theological officialdom applies all means of misguidance and defamation to make such congresses impossible. The participants must also exercise great restraint in order to not scandalise the public.

Academic science can therefore not assert that occultism or spiritism hardly ever eventuates in civilised countries. They are here and, for as long as spirit beings exist, will always be here. People in civilised countries are still playing hide and seek. Good mediums are also included here, because they eschew publicity, not because they commit fraud, but because one thinks that they are mentally abnormal. The sciences would prefer to have these mediums behind closed doors, so that they could experiment with them. Spiritualism lacks immunity.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

April 1967

A spiritual point of view in regards to a congress of the Catholic Church, Bavaria: Around 450 participants from august academic circles participated at this important congress. They discussed that it should basically be possible to maintain the viability of an isolated, separated head. Japanese researchers were supposed to have successfully carried out such an experiment with the head of a dog. What is the relationship of this perfection to that of a human head? These discussions and the medical research experiments clearly show the atheism present in this field.

The Church astonishingly refrained from making a comment. A sign that their religion does not suffice to deal with this question. Do human beings have the right to cross certain borders and where are these borders?

Professor Peter Röttgen had this to say:

“The brain is not the seat of the spiritual soul. The brain is to some extent an organ the soul plays, like an organist. The neurosurgeon can remove a few pipes of the organ if it sounds out of tune, but he cannot exchange these pipes. But we neurosurgeons cannot and do not want to touch the organist or the composer.”

If the Church is unwilling or incapable of expressing its point of view, we must assert a claim on the spiritual realm to make a comment. The sciences would like to keep a person's genius alive for the future, even if the rest of the body is forfeited in the process. The genius, ergo the spirit is however COSMIC. The scientists in Munich never mentioned the word “astral body” at all, because the seat of the soul is not only in the brain, but actually throughout the body. The brain is however just a relay, one that is in contact with the cosmic consciousness. Consciousness as well as the astral body are however the divine parts of a human being. This is the reason why the Church should be able to give a clear answer. The realm of the spirit, ergo the real home of all human beings, categorically rejects all such experiments for ethic reasons. The MESSENGER of LIGHT ELIAS:

ELIAS : There is an interrelationship between the brain and the soul. The brain, as “computer” and “relay”, offers the soul the opportunity to communicate with the brain. This connection is so strong, that – for as long as the brain retains its functions – the soul gets the impression that it resides within the brain. The way you have the impression to reside within your body, even though the centre of soul is located outside your body.

Question : What do you mean by “centre of the soul”?

ELIAS : I mean the soul's core. This core is one's sentiment, namely one's ego-consciousness. It is one's individual consciousness that knows: I am me and nobody else. This centre does not have to be tied to any memory.

Question : Can you explain this to us in more detail?

ELIAS : The ASTRAL BODY is intimately connected to the physical body during one's life on Earth. But this ASTRAL BODY on its own is not the soul, it's only a part of it. The ego-consciousness is the actual soul. This part of the soul is however anchored within the COSMOS.

- The overall soul is the sum of its experiences, plus the astral body, plus the ego-consciousness – meaning: the CENTRE.

This CENTRE is divine, because it stems from GOD. This is how the EGO is connected to GOD and how people behave matters not. They can never completely disengage themselves from this. They are continuously attracted like a magnet. The functions of the CENTRE are divinely controlled. People do however retain their free will. They can act and think independently. The CENTRE in turn is connected to the ASTRAL BODY.

May 1967

Mankind believes the things the sciences verify. The layman is however of the opinion that only distinguished personalities are engaged in the sciences, namely only professors and doctors, in a nutshell, the best academics universities produce. The science represent a yardstick for the layman, one that is unshakable.

If one mentions anything about psycho-science, parapsychology or even spiritualism to a layman, one immediately encounters a scepticism that often degenerates into derision. The layman immediately expresses the view that the sciences do not recognise such assertions and that the sciences represent a panel of experts one can completely trust in this respect. They also say that most psycho-scientists are people without academic titles and that one could not trust them because they lack academic "objectivity".

One has to say here that the broader masses of humankind is completely disorientated in this respect. This self-destroying prejudice is completely out of place. The sciences have access to a huge army of researchers and co-workers that do not have academic titles, but still gained great insights in regards to medicine, chemistry and physics in spite of this. Mankind would still be in its infancy scientifically and technologically speaking without their assistance.

Researchers and co-workers also work in the sector of the psycho-sciences that might not have graduated and gained professorships, but one can certainly not compare them to the average citizen. We are dealing with highly qualified human beings in a lot of cases and they too can think and assess. It is actually necessary in most cases that these psycho-scientists master important subjects, subjects that are however not taught at universities. Studying this produces special knowledge, ergo expert knowledge in spite of this, and it makes a specific claim on logic and the capacity of the mind. The public at large makes a misjudgement when it calls the insights of the psycho-sciences “immature”.

I suppose that it is quite understandable when a doctor makes a snide remark about spiritualism for instance, because he is not a specialist in this field of knowledge. But when a professor of psycho-science believes in ghosts and openly confesses to do so, the press cynically uses headlines to say: “Professor believes in ghosts”. His statement is not an unsubstantiated assumption, but this is what Professor Bender, Freiburg/Breisgau experienced only recently.

We know that specialists are rated higher than your average general practitioner. The specialist can annul the assessment made by a general practitioner. Psycho-science demands the same right. An expert in psycho-science or an expert in the field of spiritualism annuls the misjudgement of a scientist, because the latter knows too little or has no experience at all. It has also become apparent that university scientists do not have the necessary tenacity or the required experience or financial means.

Psycho-science demands equality of rights for its special disciplines!

Spiritualism is an important and complicated natural science, related to religion. We should differentiate better in regards to superstitions. Even the major Churches promote a certain number of superstitions, superstitions that stem from ignorance.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

June 1967

There is no doubt that the perceived functions of the brain are to blame that medical science adheres to the concept that all mental functions, including consciousness, must reside within the brain. People would be irrevocably dead after their demise if this was the case. There would be no survival of the spirit.

- Spiritual experiences, respectively the contact with departed souls verifies the opposite!

In spite of overwhelming evidence one is too disinclined to acknowledge spiritual experiences. But as one is unable to simply abnegate the matter, academic science treads a middle path: One sticks to the view that further explanations are required.

We naturally also hold the opinion that there is still a lot more to explain. This will probably still require millennia. But the survival of the human consciousness is already beyond doubt. This conclusion is of vital importance, because it towers over biblical interpretations in every respect.

- The major religions' concept of the survival of the soul is incorrect.

Some functions of the brain can be deactivated at certain locations within the brain. One can for instance deactivate senses whose location within the brain are known. This produces fallacies. For as long as no other evidence is at hand, fallacies are possible, similarly to the way the rising sun dupes us. Therein lays a decisive point, one that is unfortunately ignored, because the experts researching the functions of the brain do not sufficiently familiarise themselves with the material produced by our research into the hereafter. The evidence that the functions of the brain can deceive has already been furnished. One should for instance read Wickland's material. The literary material of this field of knowledge is enormous.

When the brain is cut into delicate slices, the structure looks a bit like an electronic circuit board. Brain surgeons deducted from this fact that an explanation for the human consciousness can be found here. This is an absolute aberration! Even if we were dealing with a similarity to switching operations, they would only affect the physical body, but never the SPIRIT of man. Excellent mediums observed the ASTRAL BODY leaving the physical body. Besides, the evidence for the survival of the spirit are enormously miscellaneous and comprehensive.

The fact that students are not taught this expert knowledge is deplorable. Universities naturally lack suitable academics, they are too prejudiced to allow non-academics access, because they are not competent enough according to their opinion. Competence is not always the result of extensive studies at a university, but sometimes also the result of personal experience.

- Personal experience plays a greater role than theoretical lessons according to our opinion.
- People have a justified right to demand the inclusion of experienced spiritualists at universities. Their knowledge plays a major role in the cohabitation and the existence of human beings on this planet.

We had various opportunities to deal with the views of academics. What stands out is the fact that they opposes the idea of an otherworldly responsibility. The supernatural LAW represents a threat to academic science. This reason is so compelling that all participate. One does not want to hear about this. Academically trained people are not willing to admit responsibility. They prefer to be dead instead.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

July 1967

After having conducted well over 1,000 séances and having found that every one of them was a resounding success, one can only shake one's head when one discovers the fantastic concepts brain research come up with in regards to the functions of consciousness.

Our tried and trusted guide ELIAS, our otherworldly experts for all scientific relevancies, recently mentioned the "classification of thoughts". Saying that it was important for terrestrial man to correctly classify his thoughts, because only order guarantees the flawless functioning of one's consciousness.

But where are thoughts classified?

Modern medicine believes that thoughts reside within the brain for the duration of one's terrestrial existence and that they can be accessed from there. The American psychiatrist Dr. Wickland refuted this mistake with the help of spiritual séances. We also know just how great this mistake is. If one were to accept the inexperienced concepts of those interpreters that also assert that the soul represents a function of the brain, one could comparatively also have to say that telecasts takes place inside a television set. People would naturally laugh about this, because everyone knows better. We are also forced to laugh about the above mentioned mistake, because we already know better.

The spiritual indoctrination of how one can correctly classify one's thoughts was decisive for us. The classification of conscious processes takes place within the cosmos. If one were to ask how large the human consciousness could be, one could certainly reply that it can expand to the size of the universe.

- There is indeed a CONSCIOUSNESS that fills the totality of the universe, namely GOD'S consciousness.

This is where we find the key to our likeness to GOD. Therein do human beings resemble their CREATOR. The unimaginable size of the divine consciousness should demand more respect and more reverence from all human beings and not an image of a human-like person.

- The correct assessment of the human consciousness by the sciences is of unequalled importance. The consequences of this positive insight are beyond one's imagination.

We cannot force the sciences to adopt the insights that we gained, but we induce them to contemplate them. The path to take is clearly defined. All that is lacking is good will.

It can happen that a disorder takes place within people's consciousness when they fall psychically ill and we call this a "mental disorder". The actual brain of such people must not necessarily show the slightest change. The problem may be found within the cosmos. We could be dealing with processes of consciousness that are not correctly classified. If the brain is damaged it can happen that it is no longer capable of correctly identifying cosmic THOUGHT VIBRATIONS. It is therefore important to undertake the right exercises in good time in regards to pedagogic training, because this will make the correct ordering of thoughts possible. Such attempts should also be tried with the insane.

But how does the correct classification take place?

We have received pertinent tips from the WORLD of SPIRIT years ago. The classification runs according to the nature of things, that is to say, iron with iron, stones with stones in all their variety, wood and all wooden appearances and parts etc. We will go into more detail some other time. The same applies to languages, symbols and acoustics. – Everything is reflected within the brain.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

August 1967

Medical science continuously looks for new remedies. There are however quite a few illnesses whose origin is within people's mind, that is to say, within people's soul. When talk turns to mental illnesses, the medical fraternity talks about a psychosis or psychosomatic illnesses. But everything to do with the soul is taken less serious. Mental illnesses can however be lethal in spite of this.

It is extremely bad when people's LOVE is affected. We know from experience that these people will not eat or drink, that they will not take pleasure in anything and end up committing suicide or simply fall into a decline. Even one's LOVE for country or homeland can have serious consequences. Medical research and results from this field of knowledge have been completely neglected. The bulk of research is carried out in the material sector.

One can indeed exert a certain influence on the physical body with the help of tablets and medication, but one cannot heal an illness that originates from people's SPHERE of LOVE in this way. Only psychological treatment can help here.

- Psychologists do unfortunately have false concepts about the soul and this is why their methods are inadequate.

LOVE is either not taken serious enough or misdiagnosed all over the world.

- One single stinging remark can kill a person like an evil poison or make a person unhappy for the rest of its life.

One can clearly recognise the existence of the soul here, because physical matter does not know what LOVE is, it only acts according to the physical laws of nature and they have nothing to do with LOVE. But because LOVE here on Earth is in such dire straits, it is the order of the day that people, well actually whole nations, do not understand one another and try to kill one another in bloody wars. This is not a purely political affair, but just as much a highly important concern within medical and psychological research. This is where medical science must be charged with the greatest possible reproach. Medical science isn't just charged with dealing with people's physical body after they have been damaged in bloody wars. No, that's not how it is supposed to be! Academic science has the eminent duty to also deal with people's LOVE LIFE, because LOVE is a COSMIC ENERGY that biologically creates and binds the whole universe together.

- The sciences however do ignore people's LOVE in a most unprecedented way and replace it with the feeling of sexual lust.

This is where Sigmund Freud was profoundly wrong. Corrections are imperatively necessary if mankind is to survive into the future. Racial hatred and genocide are things that are closely related to the LOVE between people. Some trivial circumstance can turn LOVE into its complete opposite and this can turn into embittered hatred, the like we experienced during our lifetime. It is the august assignment of medical science to thoroughly investigate what circumstances effect such a reversal of polarity. These circumstances must then be combated. This is the true medicine for all of mankind.

Theology cannot help in this respect, because their dogmas and religious phrases do not help, they rather embitter violated people even more. Only the profound knowledge in regards to the psychic processes inside human beings can gradually lift the level of mankind.

- Individual people must recognise when they abuse their own divine SPARK of LOVE. This is the only way peace can truly reign here on Earth.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

September 1967

The exploration of physical matter by the sciences opened up a path that they then pursued incessantly. The available knowledge of spiritual MATTERS was declared a superstition in a most fateful manner. The world can of course endure without spiritual experiences and acceptances – but only in fear and horror. This situation could be entirely different. The spiritualist, the psycho-scientist, asks why academic science actually moved away from spiritual INSIGHTS.

Let's look at the behaviourism of native tribes: They are plainly called underdeveloped. This encompasses a whole heap of brutishness. Those that are brutish can however not expect to be taken serious by a smart aleck. What dumb people say does not count in the eyes of civilised scientists. It is generally known that supernatural phenomena do not exclude so-called dumb people, on the contrary – people's intellect can actually be very much a hindrance to such phenomena.

People in the Pacific region, in Asia, the Far East and in African and South American regions believe in the existence of spirits and they arranged their cults accordingly. They either fear or revere them, all according to their personal experiences. This belief in spirits does not just stem from people's fantasy, but also from their experience with the supernatural, from direct perceptions due to a still existing psychic ability.

Academic science shows very little interest in psychic abilities, they prefer to stick with brutishness's that makes them surmise a lot or makes them participate in a supernatural cult. If one investigates this point of view one comes to the conclusion that around 1 billion people believe in something in their unequalled brutishness that doesn't really exist. This is a presumptuousness that cannot be emphasised enough.

- The paranormal ability to perceive spiritual phenomena has nothing to do with underdevelopment. The power of imagination in native tribes isn't more pronounced than that of civilised nations.

Civilised people on the other hand are neurotics. They considerably forfeited their ability to perceive spiritual events because of their neuroses.

Scientists assert that prophets and mediums are hysterical. They make this hysteria responsible for their "hallucinations". They do confuse hysteria with sensibility here.

- The more sensitive, the more perceptive a medium, the more contact with the REGIONS of the SPIRIT it will have.

When segments of one of our séances was broadcast on television (ZDF), a scientist from Heidelberg made the following comment:

"If life after death was actually a reality, the consequences of this insight would be beyond comprehension. Everything would come tumbling down. This alone is one good reason to leave the dead where they are."

This opinion of a representative of the science is incredible, it's confessing an inability to look the truth in the eyes. To avoid, to twist or to deride the truth is naturally simpler but akin to a blasphemy.

The REGIONS of the SPIRIT do exist and they cannot be talked out of existence, because the realm of the spirit continuously manifests itself here on Earth. If it had been possible to abnegate all MANIFESTATIONS in the past, all blasphemous comments would have been an overwhelming success a long time ago.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

October 1967

We are not inclined to criticise the sciences if we are dealing with things we do not sufficiently understand ourselves. But when dealing with spiritual phenomena, we allow ourselves to criticise things severely, because we are in a position to do so. We successfully conducted well over 1,000 contacts with the WORLD of the SPIRIT. This means that we corresponded with the hereafter for around 2,000 hours. Questions were asked during this time that were not prearranged, but spontaneously adapted to each theme under discussion during contact. The otherworldly answers were spiritually convincing. When the answers were compared to those of other, eminent mediums at home and abroad, they always went along concordant lines, particularly in all questions that dealt with life after death.

- No human being on this Earth is in a position to describe the peculiarities of life in the hereafter if personal experiences in this respect are not available.

We admit that there are cases amongst the plethora of psychic phenomena that can be sifted out as worthless. But the great number of congruities deliver exact evidence, evidence that cannot be simply dismissed.

Deception is completely impossible in our séances, because we are dealing with a family team. The other participants of the circle have also been with us for many years. They do not come out of curiosity or a craving for recognition, but an interest in the truth. If one reads older scripts that deal with the same truth, one immediately finds confirmation so that any mistake is excluded.

The sciences cannot work in this way, that is to say, within a family team. They almost always depend on unfamiliar mediums. Our mediums do not receive remunerations for this mission, they have ordinary jobs and they pursue them like every other righteous citizen. Our mediums are absolutely not interested in public recognition and this is why they are not subjected to ridicule.

We prefer to use automatic psychic writing, because it offers a greater measure of control and reliability. We are naturally also in possession of other spiritual experiences, like for instance clairaudience, various levitations, dictations, sound phenomena and movements. Automatic writing was used in ancient times: As one can read in the Bible, JESUS CHRIST wrote automatically. The prophets also had the same experiences. Famous painters depicted automatic writing on canvas.

- There is plenty of evidence, but there are even more deriders in teams of scientists.

It isn't just spiritists and laymen who are trying to make contact with the hereafter. This truth is also promoted by famous and highly respected personalities here and abroad. The president of the court of cassation in Zurich, William T. Stead, for instance published a book that exclusively deals with scripts from an otherworldly soul.

Academic science is not inclined to delve into the spiritual effect of the truth, they rather try to furnish counterevidence. This is the reason why the enormous capabilities of the human soul are disowned or one places otherworldly phenomena within the subconsciousness of terrestrial people.

Conclusion: One is afraid of the truth.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

November 1967

When dealing with research into spiritual phenomena one finds that there is actually a great difference between private research and scientific laboratory tests: Spiritual phenomena cannot be forcibly produced. They cannot be similarly anticipated like the result of a chemical reaction in a retort. The LAWS of the spirit we know very little about, show their effect. It therefore happens most of the time that a spiritual phenomenon making an appearance in one's own home, cannot be repeated in a laboratory. University science only accepts the things that can be verified over again in so-called laboratory tests. But as one already ascertained that spiritual phenomena only appear under specific conditions, one tries a kind of synthesis by trying to copy the conditions where they took place. A copy is however never the same as an original, it doesn't have an original signature. These discrepancies are therefore enough to change the phenomenon or to make it completely impossible to reproduce.

Academic experts react acidly to this so-called unwillingness shown by the spirits. They cannot accept without derision that there are supposed to be phenomena that only appear in the home of the medium, in the medium's family or circle, whilst they utterly fail under the eyes of science. This state of affairs is responsible for the scepticism of the scientists who split hairs about these phenomena, trying to find suitable evidence to declare spiritualism a terrestrial miracle once and for all. One is disinclined to use terms like "metaphysics", "mystical", "occultism" well actually everything on a spiritual LEVEL. One can gather from this that private initiatives are superior here.

The following has to be said about synthesising the conditions: When a circle lights seven candles at the start of a meeting, when a very specific appellation is made and a hymn is played, one will find that a mimicry of that situation in a laboratory that might be in a different town altogether, will not be successful, because the inner attitude of the parties involved is not genuine.

- When the scrutinising scientist for instance holds the opinion that he unfortunately has to participate and put up with such a charade, one cannot compare this with the inner attitude of a circle within a private arena.

To put it more clearly: CHRIST said: "Knock on any door and they will be opened." But those that knock must be genuine seekers and not sceptical testers of the spirit that are not beyond blaspheming against GOD and his spiritual realm.

We collected a lot of experiences over the years and we conducted over 1,000 séances in our home with mediums from our own family. Any attempt to deceive is completely ruled out. This is how we managed to achieve the best results. But when one of our mediums was asked to operate in an unfamiliar town under different conditions, certain INTERFERENCES became apparent, the way one can expect to fall prey to nasty hoaxing spirits at any time.

- Every spiritual communication is akin to a "long distance call" where one cannot ascertain who is on the other end. Only the long term connection with the same spirits allows some control, because one gets to accurately know their peculiarities, individuality, temperament and their specific reactions. One can gather from these signs and characteristics that the contact is correctly established.

The way a family circle or a trained spiritual circle collects these experiences could never be duplicated in an institute.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

December 1967

Certain spook phenomena take place once in a while that atheistic journalists absolutely revel in, because they offer the kind of material they can ridicule. These occurrences are also checked by the sciences. One does eventually come to the conclusion that occult FORCES are at work, but that they stem from the medium (full stop). Explanations are interrupted in mid-sentence.

It would further have to state:

- The medium, as its name suggests, is a mediator between the here and now and the hereafter. The medium does indeed supply a certain amount of occult ENERGY in order to accomplish a spook, ergo an occult phenomenon, but the EXECUTANTS are human INTELLIGENCES that live on another PLANE of the human existence, ergo within another FREQUENCY.

Having observed a very impressive spook phenomenon, Professor Bender, Freiburg/Breisgau, came to the same conclusion, namely that the spook was initiated by a young man, one affected by puberty and with a suppressed sense of revenge. His motto: Never admit more than is necessary!

This young man was undoubtedly a medium, but nothing more. He could never have triggered a spook phenomenon without the co-operation of otherworldly entities. These things confirm that so-called experts, even if they are professors, have some knowledge in regards to spiritual matters, but still don't know everything. This actually requires unconditional LOVE and an incomparable sense of open-mindedness. It goes without saying that brutishness has no place here. Result: Terrestrial, human thought processes cannot shed light on these spiritistic cases. This is why no scientist or professor will be in a position to correctly solve a spiritual spook phenomenon.

- These kind of occult phenomena can only be solved with the help of otherworldly beings. This is why spiritualism with its possibilities has an advantage, because we receive information about the PERPETRATOR of the spook or similar phenomena through the communication skills of a good medium.

CHRIST said: "Knock on any door and they will be opened". If the sciences are actually endeavouring to look for an elucidation, they must knock on doors. We however ascertained that they always knock on the wrong door. One is not inclined to knock on GOD'S door, because this would be a futile endeavour in the eyes of the sciences, as GOD as a sentient being, does not exist. One therefore knocks on the door of the human mind, but it is not equipped to explain these phenomena either.

There are naturally also phenomena that are not based on a spiritual foundation. It isn't always easy to explain these either, but they should not be confused with otherworldly MANIFESTATIONS.

A producer of the Zweiten Deutschen Fernsehens ZDF (German TV station) asked our otherworldly guide ELIAS if he could tell him what spook was all about.

ELIAS answered:

“Genuine spook is the manifestation of the invisible.”

We undertook tests of a physical nature that were supported by the otherworldly. This eventuated in some very successful levitations (abrogation of gravity). We then established communication contact after these experiments and received an accurate explanation of the observed phenomenon. This is why we know that the SPIRIT controls physical matter (and not the other way round), if the right requirements are created for this. The medium is an important factor in effecting these requirements.

January 1968

One does not consult the Church when talk turn to the hereafter, but rather to medical science. One holds the opinion that physicians must also be competent in this direction. A physician, as confidant of his patient, must therefore be in possession of scientifically borne knowledge in regards to the soul and its potentialities to exist. If the physician is unable to provide any information about this, one assumes that neither an independent soul nor a hereafter exists. This unsubstantiated trust in medical science shown by the public is the greatest cardinal mistake mankind can ever make. There are indeed a number of highly respected physicians in possession of the nominative experiences and basic knowledge, but they cannot prevail against the superiority of those that deny GOD’S existence.

This blind trust shown by mankind is terribly abused and leads to disappointments. Church representatives also avoid answering these questions, because they know that they are incapable of providing the right answers.

- Neither physician nor the Fathers of the Church are experienced spiritualists, that is to say, spiritualist and those that entertain contact with the hereafter are far ahead of medical science and Church religions in this respect.

Only an experienced spiritualist is in a position to give a binding answer to questions about the soul. He is a specialist of this very difficult field of knowledge. But if a spiritualist were to enrol at a university in order to study psychology or medicine, he would have to run the gauntlet with his spiritual knowledge. It would be impossible for him to engage in such studies, because he would be incapable of treading these well-worn paths of aberrations. It would be akin to unbearable torture.

As things stand, it is not a case of whether medical science can give an adequate explanation about the immortality of the soul or not. The question of whether the spiritualist is credible enough is far more important. Existing experiences tell us that the public trusts spiritualist only marginally. Deceptions unfortunately rear their ugly head here too and this includes false reports for material reasons and a hostile attitude by the sciences and the Church. We do have to stress here that neither the sciences nor any Church or any other institution has ever been in a position to definitely refute the assertions and insights of spiritualism. This will also not be possible in the future, because the truth cannot be eliminated.

- Spiritualism therefore requires more respect, more trust and beyond that the support of academic science.

To receive financial support for research and recognition from academic circles is particularly difficult, because the existing conceitedness within the university sciences does not allow the direct co-operation with experienced spiritualists. This is where a class difference exists that tries to suppress the truth in every possible way.

- Research into the hereafter does not have to furnish evidence, because this evidence can be found a million times over all throughout the world.

Spiritualism, as a natural science, needs access to universities. It does not suffice for an institute for soul-hygiene, like the one in Freiburg/Breisgau, to look for excuses in order to prove the opposite.

- It demands reverence for mankind's highest possible existence opportunities and development.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

February 1968

One insists on the point of view that once-only evidence does not suffice. One should be able to produce the same evidence under the same conditions over again. The question is whether this demand also applies to spiritualism? The LAWS of the realm of the spirit are so rigorous that it is difficult to fulfil the same conditions.

- One can attend to all requirements when conducting a séance – but an amiss mental attitude of one participant can suffice to make the result questionable.

This is the reason why most circles are closed entities. We also had bad experiences with guests and with other inquisitive people.

- Therefore, the fact that a circle is a closed entity and bars the participation of other people does not mean that it plays hide and seek or has a guilty conscience, it is simply looking after its interests because of some adverse experiences in the past.

A circle with a participant with a negative attitude in its midst will naturally not fail immediately, but the results will be rather mediocre, because the positive WORLD of the hereafter cannot get through in the desired manner. This advocated carefulness in regards to the selection of participants disconcerts academic science. Journalist turn even more sceptical and they often offer a paradigm of atheism.

- Atheism is poison in regards to all contacts with the positive hereafter. This is why excessive doubters are untenable in every respect when it comes to séances.

This inappropriate condition unfortunately supplies the waterwheels of journalists and academics with water. They are of the opinion that solid belief in the supernatural during séances leads to self-deceptions. One holds the opinion that this belief enormously limits one's objectivity. This is a very unfortunate mistake! The objectivity of experienced and level-improving spiritualists is considerably greater than is the case with extreme doubters who fall prey to the most nonsensical excuses and distortions that have nothing whatsoever to do with objectivity.

- The question of objectivity is decisive in regards to evidence.

When academics show doubt in a spiritual phenomenon or an otherworldly contact, one has to absolutely ascertain whether they preserve their logic and objectivity. Their arguments could be trying to talk things out of existence, malevolent negations or defeatism.

- A negative person, inclined to derisiveness, will ignore all logic or objectivity confronted with, because all he wish to do is to drag the supernatural down.

We accurately familiarised ourselves with the attitude of the average citizen over the years. The good ones look for goodness. The evil ones seek evil. The deriders look for derision. This has nothing to do with objectivity.

Spiritualism does not have to look for evidence for long. There is an enormous amount of evidence available. Most of it was often masterly recorded in writing and also published. When one asks an academic derider and doubter for this type of evidence they often have no inkling that this knowledge exists. They assess according to what they feel and naturally also according to the templates of the sciences they made during their studies. These templates are an evil and they hinder serious science from getting closer to the truth enormously.

Universities do not teach atheism, but the sciences stay so obviously clear of theology that nobody can fail to see an atheistic rejection in this in spite of this. This inevitably raises the question of whether theology teaches a lot of nonsense that the natural sciences find impossible to accept.

When accurately delving into the Bible one comes to the conclusion that the writers and narrators of its stories actually existed and that they encountered phenomena that were witnessed by a number of other people too. These phenomena however remain incredible, respectively impossible in the eyes of the sciences in spite of this. Theology is therefore not inclined to discuss the likelihood of these miracles. They verily make their job easy by demanding that people have to blindly believe what they say, because rejection would be a great sin. The sciences do not care whether it is a sin or not. All they want is exact evidence. GOD'S existence can only be verified subjectively. This is why the sciences and theology are at war with one another – and politics uses this discord to its advantage.

The situation is different with psycho-science, because it furnishes objective evidence, at least in regards to the human existence after people's demise. The sciences would however like to see this objective evidence relegated to within the arena of theology that one distrust anyway. This is how it has unfortunately been for millennia.

Intensive research based on better experiences and better means, for instance of a technical nature, promote better results. We are about to be confronted with the fact that psycho-science is turning into one of the most important disciplines within the natural sciences.

The miracles described in the Bible are falsely interpreted observations, ergo based on false witness statements. This assessment, it can be objectively verified, is certainly not a deathblow to religion, this fascinating adjustment of the facts actually gives religion and biblical accounts judicious credibility. This credibility rates higher than any religious belief in miracles.

There are no miracles because so-called miracles are also based on LEGALITIES that are mostly still unknown. Theology does indeed fear the loss of prestige, but one is wrong here. Enormous changes to the Holy Scriptures might take place, but:

- These changes in particular will incredibly consolidate the prestige of all Churches of all denominations, because subjective evidence dissolves the biblical miracles and they put on an objective gown.

A major breakthrough has not yet eventuated, but new insights are at the ready and they seek entrance into the human mind.

It is the assignment of academic science to pay attention to this new-orientation, because it isn't just a matter for theology. The scientifically impossible miracles in the field of the occult must be acquainted with logic. Only then will politics pursue completely different paths.

We trust space travel these days because it is based on logic. People can demand the same kind of trust from the miracles in the Bible. GOD cannot be explained by waiving all logical examinations. This leaves academic science with a huge field of activity that all disciplines can only benefit from. Psycho-scientific insights are unfortunately not sufficiently disseminated.

April 1968

A genuine case of vampirism was demonstrated during a conversation on television as follows: A young lady was attacked by a man at night and bitten on the neck. They discovered at the hospital that she lost a lot of blood. The perpetrator repeated his crime and the police managed to arrest him.

Explanation: Mentally insane and off into an asylum.

The victim of this vampiric crime described the experience: The victim had a feeling of doom a priori, she saw a cold mist entering the room and also a mysterious glittering. These concomitants could neither be meaningfully explained by the Criminal Investigation Department nor by psychiatry.

The psychiatrist mentioned the "power of imagination".

What does such a case of vampirism look like from the point of view of psycho-science? The victim had an ENEMY in the realm of the spirit, something that very often happens with primitive people, Africans and Polynesians. The demonic spirit being, that could certainly be a disembodied human being, looks for a terrestrial instrument in order to exact revenge. The man carrying out this act of vampirism was the instrument. He was psychic and his attitude was negative enough to be suitable for being possessed by a spirit being. We are therefore not dealing with a perverse act of this man and also not with a usual case of madness. But with a genuine case of vampirism, that is to say, the sucking of blood by a spirit that is indeed in the background, but becomes active through a medium.

Psychiatry still has a lot to learn from psycho-science. It is very deplorable that psychiatry does not take psycho-science serious enough, even though psycho-science disposes over far better means and experiences. Good mediums are not only at the disposal of psychiatrists, but also experienced spiritualists that do not misuse their services, something that is usually the case with psychiatrists.

This explanation of vampirism is not a theory, but based on real experiences. These experiences are verified by the numerous protocols published by the American psychiatrist Dr. Wickland. The sciences can read about this in his book “30 years amongst the Dead”.

When such a case of otherworldly demonic influence arises, it is best for the victim to undertake a change of location. Such spook is in most cases tied to locality, because base spirit beings have limited freedom. They find it difficult to follow, at least a change of location considerably reduces their ENERGY.

The sciences do unfortunately not want to hear the word “spirit” at all. One also has a completely false concept in regards to the word “soul”. All of terrestrial humankind could make enormous strides forward if academic science would finally decide to make a serious attempt to acquire psycho-science’s knowledge. Just how much one still staggers in the dark is verified by the behaviourism of television, because it is quite prepared to discuss vampirism for half an hour, whilst they provide hardly 20 minutes for spiritualism’s genuine phenomena and would like to have everything explained within this short timeframe.

Psycho-science demands more tolerance, that is to say, more understanding for the enormous endeavours and private financial sacrifices that have to be borne by those actively involved. We call our endeavours a service to mankind and we do this without having sworn an oath.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

May 1968

The Swede Friedrich Jürgenson from Mölnbo recorded voices from the hereafter with his tape recorder. This phenomenon caused quite a stir. Jürgenson is convinced that he is dealing with voices of his dead friends.

The WORLD of SPIRIT once again endeavoured to produce a phenomenon that the sciences could also appreciate. We are dealing with spontaneous messages that were quite unintended. Jürgenson is in possession of lots of these recordings and they simply cannot be discounted.

The sciences naturally have an explanation for such phenomena ready. This does not surprise. One admits that the Swede Jürgenson made a bodacious discovery, because one cannot always admit that the sciences are confronted with an enigma. They say that Jürgenson managed to manifest thoughts from his subconscious on tape. The subconscious gets the blame once again! The reader will have ascertained by now that the sciences would not like to have any other explanation.

How can one explain this phenomenon spiritually?

We know that materialised VOICES from the hereafter exist. The publisher of this article experienced this phenomena himself. This phenomenon is well-known in spiritual circles all over the world. The “Oracle of Delphi” is also part of this. To record such a VOICE on tape is no problem, because its tonal vibrations are like those of any other voice. Jürgenson however could not hear these otherworldly VOICE directly with his ears, they were only discovered when the tape was played back.

The microphone must have been very sensitive. It reacted to tonal vibrations that are beyond human hearing. Dogs and other animals also hear sounds that we cannot perceive because they are beyond our sensory spectrum. The microphone undoubtedly recorded ultrasonic waves, ergo voices that cannot be perceived by the human ear. This also applies to many spiritistic phenomena where one is dealing with gentle or inaudible raps.

But the attempt to classify the human subconscious into physical frequencies should be left to academics. This assumption is illogical and absurd and also shows that their unwillingness to believe is defended with all available means – even with the most illogical definitions.

What is of specific interest is the kind of microphone that was used. Should it be possible to produce even more sensitive microphones and tape recorder tapes, it would indicate a way of having even more success in this matter. Otherworldly entities have the opportunity to materialise their messages with the help of a medium with the right physical qualities. The high sensitivity of a microphone might help here if the available ENERGY does not suffice.

The VOICE that is inaudible to the human ear can however be heard by a dog. This becomes apparent in the report by the Swede Jürgenson. His poodle Carino behaved in such a manner that there could be no doubt that he must have felt spoken to from INVISIBLE QUARTERS. The otherworldly VOICE actually whispered the words:

“Oh Carino – d’Annuncio – do you hear me? – Carino, do you know me?”

To make the subconscious of the Swede responsible for this is pure malevolence towards an august truth and unworthy of the world of science. The spiritual interpretation is absolutely more comprehensible and hits the nail on the head. Technology will assist us to verify the truth once and for all.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

June 1968

Most people are of the opinion that academic science does not think it worthwhile to seriously deal with spiritualism. This is a mistake! – Academic science does not stand idly by, it tries to explore. But their methods differ from those applied by private research. Great mistakes are made and they are to the detriment of academic science.

- The selection of the mediums is in itself is a decisive factor.

Private spiritualism is in possession of a very comprehensive cache of experiences. The sciences will have and must gain these experiences a priory, as it does not want to be guided by private experiences.

- The greatest dependability in regards to mediums only occurs after they have been under the strict control of a spiritual circle for years.

A medium must also have a terrestrial master who trains, supervises and protects it. A good circle will however very rarely relinquish such a medium to science, particularly not if the protector and guide of such a medium is not consulted at all and completely eliminated.

Academic does not concern itself with such protective measures. It simply goes ahead and investigates, even after it has been warned. This is why it is almost always a case where a medium is engaged that independently practised its talents without the guidance of a circle. These medium therefore fail when tested in a laboratory or they present scientists with an insoluble enigma. This has been happening for years and one makes no progress. This is why private research has an advantage, even if its financial position is catastrophic. A human being can be psychic to a high degree for instance, he or she can have genuine contacts with the hereafter and still be a dud for the sciences.

- Mediums should not work independently, they must offer their service to a group, the way CHRIST'S disciples offered theirs.

Individually working mediums are almost always craving for recognition, they are dogmatic and religious zealots. These are however not attributes that allow contact with HIGHER SPIRIT BEINGS to take place. But it is these exact same mediums that are engaged by science to verify their abilities. The results of this can only be seen as the worst kind of superstition unless one knows and sees through the real circumstances.

Heaven and hell are concepts academic science is not interested in. They hold the opinion that they are dealing with contrivances of the human fantasy. But this is a great mistake! Heaven and hell are concepts that are based on multiple experiences. Buddha, Mohammed, Zarathustra, Socrates, CHRIST and many more were familiar with it. The experienced spiritualist also encounters heaven and hell and this so clearly that all doubts in their existence disappears.

If the sciences would finally make the decision to really look for the truth, even then when it is to be found in divine REGIONS, they would take the first step towards success. The divine REGIONS are part of the truth and they cannot be replaced or eliminated through lies. The political brief for the sciences is still:

- "Verify that GOD and his HIERARCHY does not exist."

One therefore looks for mediums that are suitable to declare that spiritualism is a human abnormality and that it has nothing to do with the phenomena of the realm of the spirit. The world of the spirit, if it really existed, could be seen as a kind of PENITENTIARY – but the sciences would find this horrible.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

August 1968

There is hardly a field of expertise that is not worthwhile to explore. This is why it is incomprehensible that the sciences have not managed to this day to verify the survival of the soul after its disembodiment. This evidence must apparently come from the private sector.

The sciences however object by saying that private pundits, and this includes serious spiritualists, do not have sufficient academic education to be trusted.

- The public unfortunately relies on this superficial judgment, even though it is not capable of assessing the situation correctly.

A spiritualistic researcher must not necessarily be an academic, because a title does not help this kind of research whatsoever. On the contrary – it has become apparent that an academic encumbrance not only opposes spiritualism – but occultism in general.

- The spiritualist's power of discernment gets tarnished if he delves into the supernatural and the hard to comprehend with a purely physical yardstick.

This certainly doesn't mean that the spiritualist is an uneducated dreamer. One demands from a pioneer of spiritualism an incredible amount of knowledge in regards to all facets of the human existence. But the experiences and assessments of a spiritualist often do not conform to that of empirical science. But those that believe that the spiritualist lacks the required education have absolutely no idea about these things. A spiritualist (without a doctorate) is more than the equal of any academic when discussing spiritual things about the human existence.

It is also a great mistake to assume that all academic researchers, doctors and theologians negatively oppose spiritualism. This is certainly not the case. Some very excellent scientific works about this field of knowledge have come from these quarters. We recommend the works by Dr. Emil Mattiesen or the comprehensive works by Minister of the Church Johannes Greber and many more.<sup>1</sup> Something that really riles us is the fact that a number of academics of renown and titled, snidely assess spiritualism without actually knowing anything about it, well not even acknowledge the difference between spiritism and spiritualism.

- One continuously mentions the dangers of occultism and the dangers to one's health without considering in the process that a trip to the Moon is far more dangerous.

An astronaut must undergo training, he must know what he has to do in dangerous situations. The same applies to spiritual mediums and their supporters. They must also undertake this journey into the unknown and gradually lift the veil that hides the mysterious.

- This field of knowledge is more important than our terrestrial existence, because it occupied the major part of our existence.

One unfortunately makes the mistake of expecting immediate and ultimate results without actually starting right from the beginning. Besides, a lot of scientists and physicians expect omnipotence from the otherworldly in order to verify their existence. Result: Ignorance and knowledge know no boundaries.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

September 1968

Psychology is a relatively new science and this means that it is still in its infancy. Points of reference for this science are biological and medical experiences. This is exactly where a grave mistake is made, because both of these points of reference disregard the soul.

- Psychology is also an examination of the psyche; this is why it is, amongst other things, Psychology's assignment to deal with spiritualism, because this is the only way its examination of the human psyche can gain objective results.

Psychology continues to run along the tracks the other sciences have also solidly pursued. Such prefabricated knowledge, produced through physical means and insights, can do very little to help psychology. This is the reason why lunatic asylums and institutions for the insane are overfilled.

The examination of the psyche runs along the wrong tracks. One does not show the right concern for all the many patients that are trapped in the fangs of the NEGATIVE WORLD of the SPIRIT. They can hardly hope for a solution of their problems, because physicians and carers do not actually know what illness they suffer from.

The denotation "possession" is now hardly ever used. One now only talks about so-called "mental disturbances". Based on our own contacts with the hereafter we can say that the majority of the interned mental patients are done a great injustice to. They are not taken serious, they are considered abnormal, that is to say, one assumes that they suffer from some damage to the brain. The reality is that possessions have nothing whatsoever to do with the functions of the brain. Conscious processes are a purely cosmic affair. The ability to think and feel is located outside of physical matter.

- Possessions are the interference of an otherworldly INTELLIGENCE with the COSMIC CONSCIOUSNESS of a terrestrial human being.
- Those so afflicted are no longer capable of remaining on their own, individual THOUGHT-FREQUENCY. A second, third or even numerous "SENDERS" use the same WAVELENGTH the patient uses.
- All further illnesses suffered by the physical body are of a psychosomatic nature. The reality is that it is not the brain that is disturbed, but the spiritual FREQUENCY of person's consciousness.

Possessions are difficult to diagnose, because other disturbances of people's consciousness also exist. The best means available would be an examination with the help of a good medium, the way Dr. Wickland in the USA practiced this for more than 30 years. Even though it is the only correct way, psychology and other research into the psyche unfortunately waive this method. A physician would not like to be surpassed by the accounts of a medium, respectively the accounts of the medium's spirit GUIDE. Academic arrogance blocks this healing potential.

- One can assume that someone is possessed when one is dealing with "STRANGE VOICES" that are only perceived by the patient.
- Benevolent, positive INTELLIGENCES will never elicit a possession.

A genuine possession is always negative and therefore dangerous. POSSESSION SPIRITS or THOUGHT BEARERS, as the Japanese call them, call themselves "angels", "guardian angels" and even "Christ" or "God" in spite of this. When patients announce that they are in contact with "Christ", one immediately assumes that these patient are completely crazy. These patients however still tell the truth in spite of this, because they lack any knowledge about their own possession. They are not aware that they are being had and that they are the victims of a malicious spirit.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

October 1968

Spiritualism makes a very considerable contribution to the sciences in regards to research into people's consciousness. If one still assumes these days that the conscious processes take place within the human brain one makes a grave mistake. Thousands of experiences in the field of spiritualism unambiguously verify that the opposite is true:

- Consciousness is indeed in a very close relationship with the brain, but it works independently and it also continues to exist without a physical brain.

Spiritual insights show that consciousness actually works far better without an organic body.

- Meaning: The physical body slows mental, respectively spiritual perceptions down.

Our association with BEINGS from outside our physical plane of existence showed that these otherworldly THOUGHT BEARERS react far better, that is to say, that they possess better far better sensory perceptions than are possible in a body made of flesh and blood. The mistake of assuming that all conscious processes take place within the brain, respectively that thoughts and perceptions take place within the brain, bars the way to spiritual insights. This is why it is difficult to believe that "dead" people can still be conscious.

The death of people also seems to be very difficult to believe, because it is regarded the absolute extinguishment of one's consciousness. The reality is that one's consciousness is completely untouched by one's demise; only one's control over the body falls away completely.

- Death itself is in a way not different from having one's hair cut, wherever it falls is of no interest whatsoever to one's consciousness. Only one's consciousness is of importance, because it actually represents one's personality. The physical body has very little to do with the personality.

As the sciences have not been able to extricate themselves from the dogma of absolute mortality, they carried out the most absurd tests and also came to the most absurd conclusions: They for instance sliced a brain into extremely thin slices and found that these showed a great similarity to printed circuitry and transistors. One therefore assumed that the functions of one's consciousness take place within the convolutions of the brain. This is a great error, one that spiritualism has absolutely refuted.

- The phenomenon of clairaudience is also a part of spiritualism. These telepathic conversations between a "dead" and a living human being unambiguously verify the survival of the human consciousness with all its mental abilities and memories intact.
- Nothing has to escape from the body that isn't already outside of the body, because a person's demise only severs the connection to the brain – and this puts an end to its control over the body. Death is therefore a very simple affair, but one that the sciences look at from a completely wrong angle.

The founder and leader of the Psycho-scientific Research Community is clairaudient and therefore in a position to ascertain extremely well whether one's consciousness continues to exist. Conversations with departed souls are so clear cut, that no other evidence could surpass it.

- Otherworldly BEINGS verify their existence through their absolute individuality, through their knowledge and through their superiority and their verifiable statements. It is about time that the sciences turn to spiritualism with an improved attitude, because this can only help them.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

November 1968

For thousands of years to this very day the sciences have been unable to prevent all these inhuman wars between nations and races. The sciences are actually in the service of this eternal warmongering. They support its associated technology and also develop many of its weaponry. They do however not take an interest in the spiritual development of man, because only better insights and better knowledge in regards to the permanent existence of man could make them acknowledge that wars are inhumane and therefore preposterous to nature.

Higher spiritual insights that verify that every terrestrial human being leads an infinitely long existence after their death, after their disembodiment, are as good as taboo at all universities all over the world. Those that hear the truth and support it are portrait as blockheads or dreamers. Those that know the objective truth in regards to the human existence are suppressed. They are not afforded an opportunity whatsoever to verify their experiences. This leads to a situation where all supernatural perceptions and all revelations are discriminated against and twisted with all available means, thereby robbing them of their true significance.

When the realm of the spirit reaches for means that cause great sensations, one is greatly amused by these phenomena, but one is not willing to acknowledge that these phenomena are not designed to amuse the public, but always represent a warning that people are called to account after their demise; something one is absolutely not interested in. The sciences therefore simply pass these extremely important facts by. We did find that reporters and television people took an interest in us, but the sciences are not in a hurry in this respect.

A Senior Medical Officer attended every one of our séances for over ten years. He was very pleased to hear the full truth here with us. This Dr. Hermann Gerbis, he has now sadly passed away, tried to convince his medical colleagues of the truth. He successfully managed to convince a lot of people, but his own colleagues would not listen. On the contrary – he was ridiculed! This is where the sciences stand in regards to spiritualism. To simply establish institutes for para-psychology is not enough, if these institutes are exclusively manned by university representatives. These institutes should also include suitably experienced spiritualists.

But we are also aware that politicians and representatives of nations are not interested at all, because all religious and spiritual insights cannot be equated with the behaviourism of these people. An objective research, verifying our eminent survival after our demise, is therefore undesirable and will not find financial support from the state. But when one continuously turns and twists the facts and when one propagates and publishes lies on the other hand, one finds that politics is suddenly very interested, because only the absolute end of human beings without their survival in spiritual REGIONS, makes today's politics possible and thereby also the continuation of wars and their preparations.

Without the spiritual truth, unrests and wars will happen over and over again.

Peace, without scientifically acknowledged HIGHER INSIGHTS, is impossible.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

December 1968

When talk turns to one's survival after death one expects an objective answer from the sciences. But for as long as the sciences are unwilling to give a concrete "yes" to this question, the survival after one's demise seems to be a great uncertainty to mankind.

The reality is somewhat different.

One cannot expect an objective opinion from the scientific community, because it neglected to intensively deal with spiritualism. It has not been possible up to now to measure or to verify one's survival in the realm of the spirit with the help of reliable instruments. One therefore still has to depend on a human instrument, that is to say, a medium.

There are unfortunately different levels of dependability or unreliability amongst all these human mediums. Even a specialist in this field finds it difficult to make a distinction. The representatives of the sciences are presently not in a position to make this distinction. A spiritual circle is therefore far superior in this respect.

Our spiritual circle has been working for decades and this with the same mediums who have been minutely tested and observed in the process. Our work-circle does not depend on a specific phenomenon, but finds affirmation in thousands of little details that, when summarised, are of great importance. One single movement or reaction can objectively show that one is not dealing with a reaction of the medium, but with the emotive expression of an otherworldly entity that has to do battle with the difficulties the alien, material body of the medium represents. Based on experiences made over thousands of years, the spiritualist is able to give a decisive answer, one that can and must be rated higher than the experiences of the sciences.

One cannot really say that there is superficiality in its assessment, because the collected and arranged material is abundantly available. Besides, a lot of other works, the fundamental compilation of all such experiences and observations by Dr. Emil Mattiesen alone are absolutely reliable and argumentative. But which scientist has ever studied these works?

One cannot regard the present day Institutes of Psychology and Parapsychology as professorships for spiritualism. They are still a long way from being this. All of these scientific institutes are apparently funded and controlled by governments. But no government is really interested in the truth, but rather in the conclusion that one's survival after death is still doubtful. Even if the administrator of such an institute is personally convinced of the spiritual facts, he sees no reason to publicly promote his personal conclusion. This question can therefore not yet be put to the sciences, it can only be put to those that have dealt with spiritualism all their life.

A physician cannot prove whether a patient is actually in pain. He can only assume this. But a physician can assert that the patient imagines his pain and this to such a degree that it surpasses reality. One deals in a similar fashion with spiritualism, namely with absurd assertions.

This is why it is not a case of depending on “major events” of parapsychological phenomena, but rather on the thousands of odds and ends that constitute an unbreakable chain of evidence.

- When a scientist is seriously interested in such phenomena, he must begin by studying spiritualism and beyond that, have genuine mediums at his disposal.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

January 1969

One thought it quite unnecessary to show a scientific interest in spiritualism only a few year ago. This situation has improved somewhat. There are a number of institutes these days that deal with the phenomena of parapsychology. One also conducts such tests and attempts in the Soviet Union. This is gratifying to occultists. But one is unfortunately trespassing against a number of spiritual LAWS during all of these investigations and they block any real success.

- In the first instance, one cannot be an atheists.

All explanations and interpretations of a phenomenon are based on purely terrestrial thought processes. All causes are looked for in Mother Nature’s behaviourism, that is to say, in physical matter. The presence of an intelligent WORLD of the SPIRIT occupies last place in all these contemplations. The supernatural is supposed to have its origin in physical matter. One balks at admitting that the supernatural could possibly have something to do with GOD. This is a great mistake! One forgets that all of creation has something to do with GOD, whether the sciences like this or not.

What is lacking is a neutral open-mindedness, something that is absolutely imperative. Parapsychologists engaged in this research are biased by representing and fanatically defending terrestrial interests. These researchers are unfortunately not taking the middle course.

- Our spiritual work could not have blossomed the way it did if we have not strictly adhered to the middle course.

If we expect the realm of the spirit to fulfil our demands to help us, we have to give it the full respect and recognition it deserves. The realm of the spirit however also expects us to only act on behalf of a good cause. But good causes are in a lot of cases only betrayed. We think that religion gives us an inkling of all things divine. This type of research will not follow the path it is supposed to without religion. The realm of the spirit showed us an enormous number of unusual and impressive phenomena, but almost all of them have been wrongly interpreted by others.

One would like to disavow the existence of otherworldly soul in all of these contemplations. One assumes that the seat of the soul is within the brain; it represents a kind of activity of the brain to science. The reality is that we are not dealing with an activity of the brain, but with a COSMIC PROCESS. The Japanese are somewhat ahead of us in this respect, they talk of COSMIC THOUGHT BEARERS. That this assertion is correct can be unambiguously verified. Spiritualism alone furnished thousands of pieces of such evidence.

There is also another piece of evidence from a purely scientific point of view, namely telepathy, it is nowadays beyond doubt. If thoughts would only take place within the brain thought images would not be transferable. But as one cannot measure thoughts, they penetrate thick lead plates and electric fields in spite of this, one can only be dealing with VIBRATIONS that have nothing to do with physical matter. They are therefore of a spiritual nature.

- The life of the soul, including all its perceptions, does not take place within the physical body, but outside of it. This is the reason why the soul can and does survive its terrestrial death.

The blessing that would spread across the globe cannot be imagined, if only the sciences would conduct their metaphysical research better, namely on the basis of the unbiased open-mindedness of the middle course.

People's ignorance in this field of knowledge makes almost everybody unhappy here on Earth.

The courage for progress may not be curtailed!

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

February 1969

The most important organ of a human being is undoubtedly the brain. One assumes that all mental functions, including one's conscious processes, take place within the convolutions of the brain. Only a few scientists deviate from this assumption. One has to take the fact that conscious processes within the brain have never been directly verified into consideration in spite of this. One is always only dealing with secondary effects, like for instance electrical brain waves. Constant contact with otherworldly THOUGHT BEARERS over many years however verifies that this exception within international research can never be correct.

- The whole conscious process must take place outside of the brain, because there would otherwise be no individual spirit beings. These THOUGHT BEARERS constantly verify their independence. Compared to us human beings, their thought activities are a lot faster and more objective.

It is very unfortunate that academic science took almost no notice of spiritual research results, because this makes them only tread water. One has indeed been able to ascertain which convolutions of the brain might deal with certain functions, but appearances still deceive us, something we can observe with the orbit of the sun. The reality looks entirely different and spiritualism is aware of this reality.

The main functions of the brain are naturally concerned with the physical body, but conscious processes take place outside of the body, beyond physical matter. The whole mirror of consciousness is actually to be found in the cosmos. With the help of their brain's convolutions, people have the opportunity to grasp the cosmic processes of their consciousness. We are dealing with unconsciousness or with people's demise if this is no longer the case. Death however does not destroy man's cosmic consciousness, it continues to function without a physical brain. This fact is very important, because it makes death more comprehensible and it convinces people of their survival after their disembodiment.

The function of the brain can be compared to a substation situated next to the actual central station. The soul, that is to say the COSMIC CONSCIOUSNESS of man, is the actual central station in charge of all conscious processes.

The medical fraternity raised the objection that man's scale of emotions can be influenced via the brain, for instance when alleviating pain or when narcotising the whole consciousness. This objection can however also be refuted spiritually.

- There are sufficient cases where an anaesthetised person no longer felt the body, but was still totally conscious in spite of this.
- Beyond that are cases where people under a full anaesthetic were able to observe the operation carried out on their body from outside of their body.
- And then there is the so-called phantom pain felt even thou limbs were amputated from the body. The cosmic consciousness registers the ASTRAL BODY. These patients momentarily believe that they still possess these limbs and that they can even move them.

To dismiss these important processes as “nonsense” and to ascribe these facts to people's imagination is too simple and too convenient. One could also assert that we human beings do not live on this Earth, that we simply imagine this.

One is incredibly superficial and inconsequent in regards to all mental and spiritual processes! Excuses are constantly invented in order to not have to admit that these processes, those that describe the human existence, are infinitely greater and more complicated than one could ever imagine. The sciences disregard the enormous grandeur of the human existence and its eternal continuance.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

The aviation pioneer Dr. Engineer Igo Etrich left the following meaningful words in his literary legacy<sup>2</sup>:

“It is a shame that so much light is darkened through conceitedness and faintheartedness.”

Because of all the evidence we came up with in regards to the personal survival of the human spirit, we cannot comprehend the sciences' ignorant behaviourism. Dr. Engineer Igo Etrich thought the same. He met a lot of well-known scientists and other people of authority in order to discuss spiritual facts. He generally met with reasonable open-mindedness, but it immediately disappeared into the background when the question of publicly supporting this spiritual evidence arose.

When looking for the reasons for this disingenuous behaviour, one has to conclude the following: Most scientists are virtually employed by the state, ergo by political parties and politics in general. We are only aware of a few exceptions. Politics, representing the power of the state, keeps a watchful eye on the sciences and it matters not what field of knowledge they are engaged in. These academically and politically controlled scientists know very well that they can neither admit nor promote the publication of this type of truth. Whatever they acknowledge personally remains their own private secret. The negative side naturally profits materially and mentally from the abnegation of this extremely important truth.

It is certainly not a case of lacking real evidence, on the contrary – there is an excess of evidence! There are enough spiritual phenomena happening all over the world. The behaviourism of native tribes in itself provides sufficient material to contemplate.

Terrestrial mankind's powerful and leaders know all too well what has to happen if they were to accept spiritualism, that is to say, if spiritualism would enjoy recognition at universities: Today's world would no longer be tenable. The greatest revolution this planet has ever seen would take place. There would not be one area, one philosophy or one industry that would not be immediately affected by this. The extent of such a commutation is just unimaginable. This truth is also prevented from being known with all available means.

These types of researches are forbidden in totalitarian nations to ensure that the truth remains as hidden as possible. A dictatorship has the power to suppress each and every truth.

This research is not forbidden in democratic nations, but the truth is discriminated against and its promoters are ridiculed and robbed of their credibility.

The spiritual truth finds just as little support from the Churches. The Churches are not prepared to relinquish the dogmas they defended for centuries, they would otherwise be forced to admit that they dispensed stones instead of bread, meaning that they dispensed lies instead of the truth. As the Churches side with the powerful and mankind's leaders, the whole situation isn't much different to that of federal institutions.

The reader will detect just how incredibly difficult the missionary work of Spiritualists is. We only just recently experienced a situation where even television producers falsified recordings in order to deliver a deadly blow to the truth. This infamous falsification enjoyed the full support of the Church, because it pursued the same goal, namely to defend untruths and ignorance will unfair means.

- One is prepared to accept spiritualism as one more religion, but certainly not as a verified truth.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

April 1969

Mankind's history verifies that the sciences have been duped from one year to the next. There are processes taking place in Mother Nature that seem to appear entirely different to people than they actually are. Let's mention the path the Sun takes.

One enormous deception consists in that the sciences still assume that the human soul is a product of the brain. This assumption has been faultlessly refuted through extensive spiritual experiences. One could for instance assert in comparison that a television set also produces the programs we watch. But nobody is game enough to assert this, because the principle of sending and receiving programs is known.

Incomparably less known is the Principle of Spiritualism. One could say that this enormously important natural science has been completely neglected. This is absolutely incredible to every serious spiritualist. The fact is that spiritual insights are so logical and convincing that only a malicious wilfulness can possibly ignore it. Due to the fact that this important insight in regards to the immortal soul has to live a backstairs existence, human beings as an individuum are completely falsely assessed and therefore also accordingly treated.

- If spiritualistic insights and experiences were part of the empirical sciences, the world situation that we experience these days would be absolutely impossible.

Admittedly, not all spiritualists that deal with the realm of the spirit are credible, but there are a sufficient number of qualified researchers amongst them that accomplish more than a whole series of university professors who only make fun of them.

That the soul is the most difficult thing to explore is certain; but the way psychology approaches the subject will never lead to success. The sciences should certainly not give the Soviet's party nonsense credibility whereby consciousness is tied to physical matter, ergo a product of physical matter. This has been absolutely refuted. The people – believing the greatest nonsense – are rather tied to the leadership of the party, because this promotes the party's interests.

The brain undoubtedly carries out an important activity. In any case, the brain is only a control organ.

But:

- Conscious processes are directed to the COSMOS by the brain. This happens on an extremely individual FREQUENCY. These individual FREQUENCIES have nothing to do with electricity.

We are dealing with spiritual VIBRATIONS that are still beyond our technical measuring capabilities. They possess enormous ENERGY in spite of this and they have a huge range.

- The only instrument that reacts to these spiritual VIBRATIONS is man's nervous system that is centralised the brain.

Spiritualism tells us that once the soul is disengaged from the body it can utilise its senses exceedingly well. An otherworldly soul can see, hear and feel superlatively. The reaction of its thoughts are indescribably fast. This is the reason why the answers to our questions are given at lightning speed, actually so fast that the hand of the medium can hardly keep up with writing them down.

The exploration of an otherworldly EXISTENCE is not just important, but also extremely interesting. Our experiences tell us that the realm of the spirit shows a great similarity to our world. But there is, according to size, also an enormously huge JUNGLE, where most terrestrial people get lost, because they die unprepared.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

May 1969

Contrasts exists between the natural sciences and religions that one could almost call hostile. This is the reason religious insights cannot gain scientific acknowledgement. Mankind however is rather more inclined to listen to what the sciences have to say than the expositions of theology.

- Spiritualism verifies that theology is aware of certain basic knowledge that is of enormous importance to people.

This animosity between the sciences and religion must one day come to an end, if mankind wants to progress in its spiritual development. It therefore doesn't make sense for theology to try to force their creed and doctrines on the sciences. They contain too many errors.

The sciences want to have as little to do with any religion as possible. They want to maintain their standpoint of demanding real evidence – and is how it should be. Theology on the other hand considerably deviates from this point of view and still demands blind faith.

- Spiritualism relies only on experimental evidence, but does not ignore religion in spite of this.

But the moment any research has something to do with religion, it becomes uninteresting to academic science. It is however impossible to separate religious facts from the facts of natural science. The sciences have unfortunately not yet grasped this. This situation is therefore very difficult and it prevents the worldwide enlightening indoctrination of an uninformed mankind.

Academic science sticks with an iron determination to its traditions and its associated prejudices. It forcibly blocks all religious themes by distancing itself from them. One keeps one's distance with the rational that one is not competent in regards to religious questions. This is an enormous mistake!

In order to not amplify this "cold war" between theology and the natural sciences, the sciences declared themselves prepared to show reasonable tolerance towards all religions. Theology will therefore never succeed in prevailing against any closely shielded science.

The question is: What is one to do? – Spiritualism isn't short of the kind of genuine evidence that verifies the survival of the human soul. A far greater world opened up for us, a world the Churches only show a peripheral interest in. The sciences want to ignore this WORLD, because it would interfere with our sphere of existence in a too revolutionary fashion. Everything that is presently on top would come tumbling down. The consequences would be considerable!

- Spiritualism doesn't deal with blind faith, but with the natural-scientific truth. All of these circumstances do not turn spiritualism into a religion, but in an independent sciences of great renown, admittedly one with a religious character, because it is impossible to separate the religious from the purely natural-scientific.

Academic science has now met the supernatural halfway by establishing "Parapsychological Institutes" at some universities. These institutes will however hardly approach the genuine spiritualism under prevailing conditions, because they too fend against any religious infiltration. Every phenomenon and all research results are forced into an atheistic formula by these institutes, something that does not allow a supernatural definition. This is why academic science finds itself in such a backward position, one that conjured up extremely baleful consequences for mankind. This is where a great reformation is due.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

June 1969

Universities and professors actually refused to deal with a psycho-science like spiritualism or with diviners only a few years ago. An exception was the “High Command of the Wehrmacht”, because it maintained a section for this praxis. One tried to find out what the enemy was up to and where their U-boats were stationed. This had nothing to do with gaining HIGHER INSIGHTS or with religious aspects. The results were therefore of a more demonic nature. This happened in Germany. This fact is beyond doubt, because I personally got my hands on the reports of their experiences, not after the war, but whilst battles were still being waged.

What happened on the English side? – The English were somewhat more advanced in regards to the occult. One engaged good trance-mediums there, the Air Force in particular used them especially for that purpose. The English Air Marshall planned according to the information he received from spiritual séances. According to his statements he managed to avert a lot of bloodshed in this way. It is further known that the Royal Family held regular séances in London over a number of decades and this to ask their ancestors for advice.

One only just recently decided to create a professorship for para-psychology. Experienced spiritualists think that its methods are controversial. Progress in Russia is apparently better than in Germany.

Spiritual research is confronted with a great evil: Academic science arrogantly claims that it is better informed than private research. Successes however prove that the opposite is true.

Almost all spiritual phenomena are generalised and negatively rejected through prejudice, namely as a function of the subconscious. The moment something significant takes place in this sector, the theory of the ingenious subconscious is immediately at hand and this shows the whole case in a terrestrial light. The mediums are naturally also ingenious in the eyes of science, but they are only so in a trance-state, wherein the medium has no inkling of how incredibly sally and omniscient it really is.

Where does the medium get its knowledge and experiences from?

It is utterly impossible for academic science to get anywhere near the truth with the help of a few mediums and a few séances. There is an inhibiting-zone before the HIGHEST REVELATIONS and INSIGHTS that is not easily breached. Only years of experience and religious insights make this possible.

- Atheistic methods and immoderate doubts can prevent everything.

This is where the Psychic Peace Circle, Berlin offers an advantage: The mediums only associate with this community. Fraud and deceptions are impossible, because the mediums are the children of the circle's leader. This work developed collaboratively. It is neither about a craving for recognition nor about making money; it is only about a mission that serves to indoctrinate to the benefit of all of mankind. Over 1,000 séances showed successes that do not allow any other explanations. There is such an intimate and cordial relationship between the PARTICIPANTS from the realm of the spirit and the terrestrial circle that any type of hoaxing is made impossible.

The evidence received is crushing and at the same time abashing for the sciences.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

July 1969

Most physicians and scientists unfortunately never had any personal experiences in regards to supernatural clairaudience. But if this should actually be the case, the academic concerned will certainly guard against revealing his experiences to his colleagues.

- So-called “experts” therefore always make their diagnosis from theory and from their personal assumption and only very rarely from the point of view of their own experiences.

To explain clairaudience accurately is very difficult. The experts’ judgment is: Schizophrenia (Split personality). Any other explanation is not allowed whatsoever, even though the Bible mentions possessions in a number of places, a denotation that is more appropriate. The author of this article became clairaudient himself and, as the leader of the Psychic Peace Circle, is competent enough to write about it. If a physician should become clairaudient, nobody would ever succeed in convincing him that he suffers from schizophrenia. His colleagues’ medical assessment would however steadfastly stand in spite of this.

- The reality is that genuine clairaudience is a case of absolute possession, that is to say, the occupancy of one’s consciousness by an alien (otherworldly) INTELLIGENCE.

What is one to understand under an alien INTELLIGENCE? During an episode of clairaudience, telepathic contact is made. In this case between a receiver and an invisible BEING, This contact is a completely silent process. The answers from the invisible BEING take place with such an exactness as if the receiver was reading something. His own questions, only expressed in the mind, are immediately grasped and completely and correctly understood by the spirit being. To interrupt this process is very difficult, but the receiver finds this type of communication extremely easy.

The sciences’ explanation is:

“Pathological behaviour of the subconscious, it pretends to listen to a strange person or it suffers from hallucinations.”

The clairaudient person however knows very well whether the way the conversation goes is according to his own mentality or not. If in doubt he will ask for evidence. What will initially attract the attention of the clairaudient person is that the alien INTELLIGENCE will mention the name of a religious order or pretend to be a friend who died on Earth. His knowledge is considerable, particularly in regards to things that are completely unknown to the clairaudient person.

- Things take a dangerous turn for the receiver if the alien INTELLIGENCE offers his services to the clairaudient person.

A lot of other INTELLIGENCES will then immediately enter the fray trying to prevent such an intent. This battle over the human medium is so obvious that no doubts about this reality remain for the clairaudient person. It can degenerate into a very severe contention between the medium and otherworldly ENTITIES. Otherworldly THOUGHT BEARERS were able to provide accurate information in my case, namely:

- What was negotiated and carried out at a distant locality.
- They announced the arrival of people before they knocked on my door.
- They pointed out passages in books I had not read before.
- They also used foreign words that I never read before or used before.
- They communicated in other languages that I could only decipher with the help of a dictionary.

They infinitely endeavoured to remove all doubts from everything they said. Their absolute existence is beyond doubt and the superlative doggedness and impertinences of base ENTITIES in particular were the most convincing factor. This in particular is regarded as “pathological”.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

August 1969

Natural scientific phenomena are actually subjects academic science should deal with. A very significant phenomenon of recent times was the Miracle of Fatima. This apparition was seen by about 70,000 people. The press, Church representatives and other eminent personalities were amongst them.

The things that were observed were very accurately recorded and they are beyond all doubts. Based on the state of today's Ufology and its observations; this miracle happen exactly according to the laws and experiences of other UFO phenomena. The factual report of the Catholic Church gives us accurate information. It states amongst other things:

“It seemed as if the Sun had detached itself from the firmament and fell to Earth in a zig-zag fashion. An enormous cry of dismay rose from the masses.”

As the behaviourism of an alleged “Sun” cannot be explained scientifically, it should actually be the assignment of science to create clarity here. That we're dealing with a mirage here is out of the question, because the object did not show itself in this light. Besides, it rained the now well-known plasma-snow that dissolved in the air prior to hitting the ground. The whole thing is an accurate account of a UFO sighting, however observed by the largest crowd ever assembled to observe a UFO sighting.

But the sciences were not willing or capable to deal with this more closely. One left the case in the hands of the Church. Miracles are however the Catholic Church's dearest child. The fact that the sciences did not further deal with this extremely interesting and important phenomenon is quite incredible. The collateral circumstances do not fit in with their ideas. It smelt too much of frankincense. The sciences ignored the received messages with their now well-known ignorance. The Church still asserts that MOTHER MARY spoke to the world.

A university in the USA was recently charged with the clarification of UFO phenomena. The Miracle of Fatima was not mentioned at all. How could one possibly suggest that a mass of around 70,000 people succumbed to autosuggestion and that their observations were therefore inadmissible?

The sciences should indeed deal with the protocols of the Fatima apparitions and try to explain them with the help of present day observations and experiences. This is surely not only the Church's assignment, but a highly current concern with scientific aspects.

But the same ignorance applied to dismiss the messages from Fatima as religious singsong is these days also applied to the momentous messages from UFO occupants, who are not our enemies, but endeavour to enlighten and indoctrinate us out of brotherly love in order to prevent a world catastrophe.

Politics empowers and promotes the behaviourism of academic science. It pays its wages and it expects from it exactly what it offers it and this without regard to the true circumstances.

- What is lacking is an oath to stick with the truth, something neither the sciences nor politicians dare to swear.

On the 13th anniversary of the first apparition at Fatima, 300,000 pilgrims went to the Cova da Iria. Considerable more go there these days. Are the sciences prepared to hold the opinion that this mass of people are there because of an error of judgment without actually doing something about this? The sciences bear co-responsibility in regards to the public's power of reasoning. The Fatima apparition is not a miracle, but real fact.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

September 1969

In the battle between the sciences and Church the sciences were correct in many instances. This is the reason why a lot of people are beginning to doubt whether religion can actually assert a claim on reality and the truth. Voices can already be heard – even amongst theologians - asserting that GOD was dead.

- This imputation is completely insane, because one can only declare that something is dead if it was alive before! This is further evidence that one cannot deal with logic correctly.

It is unfortunately a case where the sciences would like to ply their trade without a GOD. Why? One would like to proceed like this so that one does not have to give account for anything done to a HIGHER AUTHORITY.

Whether GOD exists or not is actually a scientific question, but one that could not be answer yet. One thing is however certain, a GOD the way the major religions would like to have HIM, does not exist. Such a GOD never existed.

Our spiritual experiences, based on indefatigable and very serious research, gained us insights into this mystery. It has to be mentioned that this psychic research asserted a claim on well over 2,000 hours. Taking into account that we always used the same mediums, this is a very considerable effort in the field of parapsychology. This type of experience towers over all possible theories.

- Our experiences with the WORLD of the SPIRIT seem to verify that GOD does indeed have a creative function, but that HE doesn't control man's fate himself. HE created an incredibly large ORGANIZATION for this and it is populated by trained PERSONNEL that keep vigil over people and call them to order, but have to fight an enormous battle against negative INTELLIGENCES at the same time.

As the Bible was written by human beings and not by HIGHER INTELLIGENCES, it naturally contains assumptions, analogies and fanciful imaginings that represent the natural course of human experiences, but have nothing to do with reality. Theologians and faithful church-goers, balking at this conclusion, are a part of this, because they are incapable of extricating themselves from ancient traditions. Most of these people are fanatical and it is generally known that fanaticism dulls logic.

- The sciences will never be able to furnish the evidence that universal creation came into being all by itself, out of pure coincidence, without any planning and without a purposeful will.

People like to find a natural explanation for everything. GOD should also be explained naturally, if possible through a scientific formula. Such an attempt is nothing short of pathological and insane megalomania, unsurpassable in its stupidity when looking at the size of the living universe. GOD'S enormously complicated functions, with its different branches of developmental levels and experiences, cannot be classified by the human mind or with the help of super-computers.

GOD is certainly just a word, but the most real concept that has nothing to do with anything abstract. Just because the sciences cannot explain this CREATIVE PRINCIPLE or this CENTRAL CONSCIOUSNESS is no reason to ignore or abnegate this natural function. This type of behaviourism by the sciences would be too illogical- and above everything else too convenient.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

October 1969

The question in regards to the existence of spirits, respectively surviving human souls, is still very current. The latest news is that this question is supposed to be decided upon once and for all. In England, the country that is most interested in this problem, the magazine "Penthouse", in conjunction with the "British Association for the Exploration of Ghostly Apparitions", set aside the sum of DM 250,000.00 as a reward. This reward is for anyone that can provide stalwart evidence of the existence of spirits.

This strategy clearly shows how much the sciences still grope in the dark. Just how little interest serious research has shown in already verified facts is incredible. Exact proof is no longer required, because thousands of pieces of evidence already exist, all of them available for scientific review. Huge amounts of money for such evidence have been posted in the USA year ago. Some of this money has been distributed. This is where not just the English magazine, but unfortunately also the "British Association for the Exploration of Ghostly Apparitions", falls short of the truth.

We know for instance that Dr. Emil Mattiesen furnished exact evidence for the existence of spirits, ergo ghosts, in his three volumes. One should not forget the protocols by Dr. Carl Wickland. It is beyond that quite impossible to list an endless series of mediums that also furnished excellent evidence. Our work over a period of many years, already comprising well over 5,000 printed pages, also contributed towards this and it is still ongoing.

- One clearly gets the impression that people would like to dupe the world, but the truth shines through over again and will not be supplanted.

Spiritual literature is certainly not only in private hands or an internal affair, it is absolutely rigorously scientific in lots of cases.

- What kind of evidence is asked for?
- What kind of evidence will be acknowledge?
- Is such evidence actually possible?

One cannot ask the WORLD of the SPIRIT for something that lies outside of spiritual possibilities and LAWS. It requires a whole mosaic of experiences and observations to answer the question about the existence of the spirit, whereby every minute detail can be of enormous importance. Spiritualists, that is to say, those that continuously practice, no longer require such evidence; nobody can divert them from their course or change their mind.

If there are people amongst academics that are still not convinced, but dispute or differently interpret all kind of things, it might rather be possible that they are not suitable to explore the WORLD of the SPIRIT, because of their character or because they are too materialistically minded. The spores are not dispersed for free, they must be earnestly strived for and earned.

- The positive WORLD of the SPIRIT endeavours to offer convincing phenomena of its own accord. One however has to pay attention to the LAWS, because a SINISTER POWER is constantly trying to prohibit or ridicule all evidence.

Years of practice enabled us to expose most of the evil machinations of base spirit entities and we are aware of their lies and their intentions. This is why we can avoid them. The question about the existence of spirits is not different from asking about the existence of the Sun. Millions and millions of people have personal experiences in this respect.

November 1969

Faced with the enormous amount of spiritual literature available these days, one has to ask oneself why the sciences have not been able to exactly verify the existence of the human soul. If this was the case, this still separated science (para-psychology) would have to receive entrance to the lecture rooms at universities.

According to today's standard of science one is allegedly still researching the subject. One has not been able so far to verify that there is no survival, respectively, no spirit beings. One cannot explain certain phenomena. The simplest way to avoid this uncomfortable fact is to portray such phenomena as an enigma.

There are no such enigmas for the experienced spiritualist, they have been explained years ago. There are indeed universities that deal with para-psychology, but they unfortunately lack the required honesty. Hardly any professor dares to admit these days that a conscious survival of the soul exists. One is not paid to make this scientific assessment, but rather paid to assert the opposite. As it is impossible for them to make this assertion, they oscillate between truth and lies: This case had not been sufficiently elucidated etc. This explanation has done the rounds for decades and continues to do so. It is as if one is dealing with a cancer bacillus one cannot track down.

Based on our experiences we can rightly assert that a lot of ill will and unsavoury intentions hide behind this. The press and television have verified this.

But the discrimination against a scientific truth is not directed solely against us, but also spreads to merited scientists and physicians that are prepared to champion this. Senior Medical Officer Dr. Hermann Gerbis, Berlin, experienced hundreds of our circle's séances as an assessor. He already showed an interest when our circle began to form. He admired our mediums and the otherworldly GUIDING SPIRITS. Through lots of tests he recognised the absolute genuineness of the psychic connection and he attempted to also champion the cause within his professional circle. In spite of all his endeavours and explanations he did unfortunately not achieve anything in this respect. Dr. H. Gerbis was pitifully derided by his colleagues.

This fact clearly shows the supercilious ignorance and intolerance in certain scientific circles who feel that they are the pinnacle of creation and who are unable to extricate themselves from the prejudices and false information rammed down their throats at universities. All further comments in regards to this are unnecessary.

The situation with theologians isn't different either: We had theologians attend our séances that were still actively preaching in Church. They too were fully convinced about the conscious, intelligent existence after death in spite of their dogmas and biblical wisdom. But they still refused to risk their position for this truth and insight in spite of this. Their "courage" was similar to that of CHRIST'S disciple Peter who allegedly publicly disowned the truth.

There is undoubtedly a lot of deceit and self-deception going on, but the available, difficult to attain evidence is so comprehensive that not just one genuine case of evidence is available, but thousands of them that are absolutely reliable. We know that the powerful have the opportunity to lie to the people, but a lot of scientists are also under their control.

December 1969

Those that do not deal with psycho-science do not have any other opportunity to orient themselves in regards to life after death. The common sciences cannot give an answer, because it also still gropes around in the darkness of the mysterious. One would have to assume that it would be easy for modern science to clear-up the question of one's survival. This is unfortunately a misconception. The question of why common science is incapable of shining a light into the darkness of our spiritual existence therefore arises.

We grappled with this question. The result: Common science has a too material, ergo a too physical attitude. There is no doubt that a lot of great successes were recorded in this way, but the sector of the pure spirit has in contrast been totally neglected. All tests and experiments concerning the LIFE of the SPIRIT are therefore undertaken and assessed under completely false points of view.

Parapsychology, ergo psycho-science, the way it is handled at these institutes associated to universities, is also more aligned with physical matter than the spirit. This is the reason why the spiritual existence is mainly of interest if it can be shown that it has a visible and verifiable influence on physical matter. Therefore all phenomena that deal with spook or kinetic facts catch their attention.

The spiritual background is hardly paid attention to, well it is actually abnegated or talked out of existence.

Spiritistic phenomena are preferred, they are however not investigated according to the spirit, but one rather tries to explain these unusual apparitions according to the laws of physics. If this doesn't succeed, ergo - even finding a false - explanation, the whole thing remains an enigma that one might be able to explained at a later point in time. One does however still assume that one will probably furnish such an explanation along purely physical lines.

The mistake is clearly apparent: The realm of the spirit is a REALM of the SPIRIT that actually has nothing to do with physical matter. The fact that the realm of the spirit might exert an influence on physical matter is exceedingly exceptional. This influence can actually only take place through the intimate contact between the two worlds.

- The general sciences must be clear about the fact that the realm of the spirit can only be assessed on hand of spiritual LAWS.

But what are the key characteristics of the spirit?

1. The invisible EGO of human beings.
2. Intelligence.
3. Perception – the things we call our “senses”.

The exploration of the realm of the spirit can only take place according to these points of view, this is the way we approach this subject. Intelligence is very much at the forefront, because it must be recognisable to such a degree that we know with certainty that we are dealing with an otherworldly INTELLIGENCE. There are a thousand ways to ascertain this. The individuality of the communicating spirit must be completely different from our own individuality.

We managed to faultlessly ascertain this otherworldly individuality of the ALIEN SPIRIT during our séances. The spirit's knowledge must be more substantial and the reaction of the spirit faster. The actions of a spirit can even be ascertained in the simplest of spook phenomena, if one is familiar with what is going on.

Weak excuses do not help mankind. Science demands trust and we demand unconditional courage to speak the truth.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

January 1970

The human brain still represents a great enigma. Thought and image processes taking place within the brain have been examined in vain up to now. Spiritualism provides considerable clues in regards to the functional processes of these mental tasks. We therefore recapitulate: The main function of the brain consists in regulating, respectively controlling the whole physical body with all its organs, that is to say, the brain is a relay for one's physical existence. All invisible conscious processes like THINKING, PLANNING, DATA PROCESSING and APPRECIATION are universal and not of a physical, respectively of a material nature.

- No surgeon will therefore ever be able to detect the soul in a physical body.

But as these conscious processes, which actually constitute one's actual EGO, are of a spiritual nature, they can neither be measured nor weighted. Every conscious process, ergo everything that is apprehended, is fixed on the universe where it is recorded as if on a tape-recording tape. These recordings are at the disposal of people on their individual FREQUENCY; they can be located and received. There are no boundaries for these cache of memories, because the universe offers enough space for all of them.

- It is therefore a mistake to assume that man's spiritual development is restricted by the absorbing capacity of the brain. So-called engrams within the brain do not exist and this is why they cannot be detected.

These COSMIC RECORDINGS vary. They can be stronger or weaker. There are also cases where they are completely missing, for instance with various dreams.

- The moment people think, they get in contact with the cosmos.

The copiousness of coherences and impressions are so enormous that the brain could not accommodate them all. That nothing is ever completely forgotten is a verified fact. Even if a human being cannot recall things at times, these VIBRATIONS are at hand and can be accessed and received later. There are case where the memory of an experience was lost for more than 50 years without it ever having been refreshed during that time. But this experience is suddenly traced and received after this long period of time. A physical brain is not required to receive these impressions.

- One was able to ascertain that famous researchers and thinkers were mentally completely active up to their demise, even though their brain was already destroyed.

This promotes the fact that spiritual sensory organs can be engaged, the way so-called "miracle cures" take place. It can happen under certain circumstances that even if a physical eye is completely destroyed, the astral EYE of the soul's body is activated to provide mental SIGHT.

These examples show us just how incredibly important spiritual insights are for biological science. Psychology also makes grave mistakes and these can only be solved and rectified through the exploration of spiritualism, respectively the psycho-sciences. If there are still people round these days that fall of their chairs laughing about spiritualism, you will find that they are the victims of scientific ignorance.

Mankind is still a long way away from the truth. Important insights that could ennoble human beings are still lacking. The sciences have a very eminent task to perform. School wisdom will not help us here, only courage and praxis will.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

February 1970

The sciences tried in vain to find the causes for the dreaded cancers people suffer from. We repeatedly tried to shed some light on these events. We assume that our otherworldly GUIDANCE is somewhat more longsighted in this respect. Our otherworldly GUIDANCE has the following to say on the matter:

“Cancer is not an infectious disease in the usual sense. It is neither based on bacteria nor viruses. This is the reason why all attempts to eradicate it are futile. Cancer is one of the worst attacks human beings are exposed to and it is controlled by the negative ANTAGONIST (Satan).”

The reason for all these attacks on human being is found in the fact that human beings represent the highest perfection within divine creation. These aspects are absolutely ignored by the sciences.

- Cancer is directed against divine INFORMATION.

The information within cells is called DNA by the sciences. New insights in regards to this were made only just recently. Every cell of the human body constantly receives divine INFORMATION in regards to its construction and behaviourism. But cells are exposed to dangers through satanic attacks, because they interfere with its divine INFORMATION. This is an incredibly demonic happening, one that is beyond imagination.

- In as far as human beings have cells that are unstable and therefore beyond their natural PROTECTION capabilities, the ANTAGONIST succeeds in introducing his FALSE INFORMATION.

Unstable cells accept the devilish INFORMATION at face value and multiply it on a continuous basis. This brings disorder to their whole DNA. Healing this is almost hopeless unless a miracle takes place that stops the multiplication of falsely informed cells. However no medication can bring this about. One has simply cut the influenced cells from the body or treated them with radiation up to now. This however does not put an end to the multiplication process, it will only extend it.

Let's go to the root of the problem, namely the unstable cell that started it all. What makes such a cell unstable? Naturally everything that is directed against GOD is a part of it. Therefore also a false, anti-nature lifestyle and mental attitude. This is the reason why smoking is very dangerous; alcohol abuse and all disharmony that promotes atheism and discontentment and hatred also. All of these are negative characteristics that are capable of making a cell unstable so that they forfeit their divine PROTECTION. Drugs are also dangerous.

- People's mental attitude naturally plays the greatest role, because we are dealing with spiritual ENERGIES.

Today's period in time is particularly prone to promote cancers, because the whole world situation creates fears and disharmony that represent poisons to all normal functions of cells. Particularly dangerous is the self-poisoning through fearful situations that can expand to turn into a public epidemic. Political turmoils are to blame for this. Every war is an attack on the nerves and the inner harmony of people. Every bellicose event contributes towards people's suffering from cancers.

- Somebody already suffering from cancer who wants to get better, must try with all their might to fight against his fears and inner disharmony. He should also not undertake anything that serves the negative. He may not smoke and he may not consume alcohol, he must live as healthy and natural a lifestyle as possible. Atheism and doubts are mental, respectively spiritual poisons.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

March 1970

One cannot just look at the physical body with its functions in order to explore what human beings are all about, one also has to look at the NONTANGIBLE BODY whose functions are even more complicated and whose functions we cannot comprehend at this point in time.

Spiritualism isn't just about connections to ASTRAL BEINGS from the realm of the spirit, but a very pertinent branch of research in regards to the human existence after disembodiment.

It has been proven so far that academic science completely failed in this sector. We owe private initiatives on the other hand a lot of cognizance and insights into the SPIRITUAL part of our LIFE. There are sufficient experiences available to give academic science a positive start.

To the detriment of all of humanity there is unfortunately a deep cleft between academic science and unencumbered private research. There is no co-operation – not even a sensible reciprocal understanding. There are on the one hand a lot of mediums and circles that surmise to know everything already, whilst they deridingly, well actually compassionately laugh about the position academic science takes. There is on the other hand academic science that is so prejudiced and arrogant in its belief to be able to interpret and define everything better, that it doesn't take private researchers into the this field of knowledge serious at all.

Result: The ability to differentiate is lacking, something that is absolutely valuable.

It is an absolute fact that private research into this field of knowledge is incomparably better informed and that it is also far more practiced and experienced. Academic science would therefore have to refer to this and allow itself to be advised on the subject. This is however too much to ask and it goes against their scientific sense of honour. Progress in regards to spiritual insights is unfortunately arrested by a kind of strike by pundits.

This mistake often becomes apparent: University scientists hold the opinion that there are no private researchers better informed or better equipped to assess these phenomena than they can. They base their assessments and search for the truth on their academic education and their titles. One however has to take into consideration that spiritualism, well actually all research into the hereafter, is subject to other LAWS of NATURE than the ones taught at universities. Whether insights stem from private research or from other sources is therefore unimportant. What is important are the results, the explanations and not the comparisons with known laws of nature, because these make occult phenomena look like enigmas.

The LAWS of the SPIRITUAL REGIONS are completely different to terrestrial or physical laws. Gravity, as it were, is already incorporated into the LAWS of the realm of the spirit. Most of what is called magic is also subject to spiritual LAWS. There are also what's called borderline cases where physical laws and spiritual LAWS touch one another. We find these contact zones with native tribes, in their cultic pageants, in the belief in spirits by Africans and even with the most primitive of peoples and tribes on Earth.

The sciences must finally admit that mankind has progressed to such a degree that it is capable of investigating occult secrets without ridiculing them or rejecting them because of a lack of interest.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

April 1970

The Canadian neurologist Dr. Wilder Penfield is of the opinion that the memory centre stores an infinite number of “tape-recordings” or “rolls of films” of everything individual people ever thought and experienced. He believes that he can retrieve these memories with the help of his electrodes. Spiritualism would no longer be a fact if this was correct; but thousands of séances carried out throughout the world speak against this.

This raises the question: What is the reality here?

We cannot answer this question, but our spirit FRIENDS have told us quite a lot about this. We, researcher into the world of the hereafter, established that consciousness does not reside in the brain. One’s whole consciousness with all its perceptions and feelings, as well as the whole capacity to think and to remember, is of a cosmic nature. If this was different, telepathy would also not exist.

One should not allow oneself to be duped, because the soul only utilises the brain as an instrument. All conscious processes run via the brain, whilst the soul is incarnated in the body. The brain has very specific areas for very specific functions, but one of the most important function of the brain is the capacity to get a BEARING on something. WAVES emanate from the brain that we are presently unable to measure and they feel their way through the cosmos looking for MEMORY VIBRATIONS. As these VIBRATIONS are individually ordered, they possess a close similarity to a computer: Every undertaking, every perception programs the computer. This getting a BEARING on something makes finding SPIRITUAL VIBRATIONS possible.

- Spiritualism verifies that consciousness is not tied to physical matter, that is also functions without a brain. We managed to ascertain that consciousness actually works even better without a brain.

Using a comparison, news broadcasters are not inside your television receiver. The brain must therefore possess a kind of “TV screen”, one that mirrors conscious processes. But once a human being is disembodied, the “TV screen” inside the brain is no longer required, because conscious functions are changed over to direct reception.

Dr. Penfield’s experiments show all too clearly that scientists dealing with the sector still use the ideas common school wisdom taught them. Like the representatives of the Church, they also doggedly stick with their own doctrines, doctrines that have been refuted through serious experiments by private spiritual research a long time ago.

Were one to compare the brain’s activities of one’s consciousness with a computer, one would find that the “brain computer”, ergo the human brain, would have to be a hundred times larger than the largest computer on Earth. But as conscious processes run along purely cosmic lines there are no restrictions in regards to capacity. There is sufficient space available within the cosmos for all individual FREQUENCIES of the human consciousness. Just how far consciousness can expand was verified by our astronauts, they were able to think and to remember unimpeded even on the Moon.

How much longer will it take before the sciences discover what every experienced spiritist, occultist, spiritualist, esoteric and spiritual researchers already know? – Experiences with otherworldly spirits are so international and accordant that there is no doubt in regards to the existence of otherworldly THOUGHT BEARERS. The belief in spirits and spirit cults, spread a million times around the world, stem from these experiences and this independent from time and distance. Explanations and assumptions like the ones promoted by Dr. Penfield only arrest the progress that is being made.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

May 1970

Technology provides lots of examples where amateurs made awesome inventions and discoveries that helped to promote technology enormously. This applies for instance to the development of radio and television, but the field of photography also lists a lot of pioneering work that were ground breaking. One could list a lot more examples here.

But the situation in the field of spiritualism is unfortunately different. Even though private researchers and pioneers undertake most excellent research and experiments here, the sciences do not take their results serious. All results are either picked to pieces through splitting hairs or they are made fun of. Progress is retarded in this way.

Spiritualism does indeed represent a powerful threat to the sciences. Every human being must give account after their demise and this does not exclude scientists. Is this the reason for their ignorance when faced with the facts?

All spook phenomena have either been disputed, twisted or abnegated in Germany up to now. Particularly young journalists, those without sufficient experience or theoretic training in this field, find great pleasure in expressing themselves cynically or derisively. A sin against the truth!

One is somewhat more far-sighted in England: All spook phenomena are registered there and checked out. There are a lot of classic cases amongst them that cannot be criticised by any scientist.

Our Menetekel, in existence for more than 10 years, would for instance be a good basis for appropriate research at universities. Phenomena must be correctly interpreted and acknowledged. Perversions for atheistic reasons are inappropriate.

A spook took place at an attorney's place two years ago. Light bulbs were unscrewed, pictures danced on the wall and loud rapping sounds were heard. All of this cause a lot of furore and it was scientifically examined. Professor H. Bender from the Psychological Institute in Freiburg/Breisgau had the following to say:

“These types of phenomena are due to the puberty of young people that subconsciously abreact their inner tensions in this way.”

What can the expert say to this?

Puberty is naturally suitable to prepare a medium for such spook phenomena. The medium emanates a spiritual ENERGY that is utilised by otherworldly INTELLIGENCES in order to produce a physical effect. “Inner tensions” have nothing to do with this. Rapping sounds are not random, they convey messages. These phenomena were also used by journalists and authors to make negative remarks about them. The whole affair ended in court and it had to adjudicate. Its findings were, amongst other things:

“The spook was not manipulated.”

The court furthermore decided that all negative passages in the book published by the Viennese Zsolnay-Verlag, titled: “Falsche Geister – Echte Schwindler” (“False spirits – genuine swindlers”) had to be removed and these passages in the already printed books had to be made illegible.

Result: A small step towards the truth, not made by the sciences, but by a court of law!

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

June 1970

After dealing with the paranormal (spirit research) for 20 years one cannot assert that we performed pure laymen’s work. The achieved results have absolute scientific value. Similar work is performed in other countries also: The Greater World League invested more than 25 years in researching the subject. Dr. Wickland, in the USA, entertained contact with the WORLD of the SPIRIT for more than 30 years.

- Even though all of this research was positive, most people are not aware of the results. The results were only spread within psycho-scientific literature and only a small circle of people showed an interest in psycho-scientific questions.

The situation is even worse in scientific circles: Universities completely factor this field of knowledge out. Psycho-scientific research is only conducted in independent institutes where atheism often dominates. Periodicals sometimes publish misconceptions or fallacies. Scientists lack objective information, unless they procure it themselves. To do so they must resort to the results of private research. But which scientist is prepared to do this? Presentations on radio and on television clearly show the negative spin-off this leads to. Result: The public is not enlightened, but falsely informed.

A scientist can be a genius in a specific field of expertise, he can be the most eminent mathematician or physicist, but woe to him if he dares to tread on the slippery ice of a discipline he has absolutely no inkling of, but still makes a comment about it. Uncontrolled nonsense will then sputter from his lips. Experts will immediately recognise this nonsense, but the broader masses amongst the listeners can only go by the title of the lecturer and these titles in particular are unfortunately often abused in order to make money.

We encountered such a case only recently during a lecture by Professor H. Haber who said that he didn’t believe in “Flying Saucers”, because he “had not seen one so far”. Is this a valid argument? One could in comparison also say that one does not believe in ghosts, because one has never seen a ghost. One also does not believe on GOD, because HE is not visible. Even if one is tolerant and respects someone’s personal inexperience and ignorance, it is still objectionable to virtually see the opinion of a layman in this important field of knowledge forced on other people via radio or TV.

- One unfortunately does not make the distinction of where the pundits’ knowledge stops and where the amateurish ignorance begins.

Every scientist that dares to talk about a subject matter he neither theoretically nor practically has a grasp of, is a layman, even if he has numerous titles added to his name, titles he acquired on completely different subject matters.

Private researchers are the other side of the coin, because they worked intensively and risking life and limb all their life in order to explore SPIRITUAL PHENOMENA. These people, in possession of theoretic insights as well as lots of practical experiences, are made fun of by scientists and often also verbally attacked. It therefore comes as no surprise to see the world situation in such dire straits, gradually robbing people of their mind.

There is no clarity within the sciences. Many pundits actually fight with one another and this in various fields of expertise. Where are the archetypes for our younger generation? Young people sense the arrogance and revolt, but they unfortunately do not know where to find the correct information.

The sciences must revise their points of view in regards to serious psycho-science. Their points of view are antiquated. Private research must be paid more attention to!

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

July 1970

Waging wars is absolutely part of science these days. The best discoveries and inventions flow directly towards war technology and the sinews of war. One does unfortunately not listen to the monitions we receive from the REGIONS of the realm of the spirit. Besides, the CAUSAL LAW of cause and effect is completely ignored.

Every now and then over the last 10 years we pointed out the devastating effects of nuclear tests in our Menetekel and our ASHTAR SHERAN brochures. We accurately explained just what one can expect. As we preserved all Menetekel and all editions of all our other brochures, we are able to furnish this evidence at any time. War related science has however completely ignored these hints.

Sever earthquakes have repeatedly shaken the planet. This in itself is nothing new, but these earthquakes have been forcibly produced. The whole weather situation on Earth has also been thrown into confusion. Suspicions in regards to why have been kept quiet, but the latest catastrophe in Peru managed to even catch the attention of newspapers.

- Nuclear fission as a tool of war is a declaration of war even in times of peace and every nuclear test is a war crime of enormous proportions.

The Berliner Zeitung from the 3rd of June 1970 writes for instance:

“According to hearsay, the 440 second long quake might have been triggered by the French nuclear test that took place the day before. People in Peru remember the earthquake in 1966 all too well. It also happened immediately after a French nuclear test in the Pacific Region.”

As the LAW of CAUSALITY, ergo of cause and effect, has absolute validity, we ask scientists the question of what effect they expect from such an enormous explosion. This atom bomb might not have been dropped over a mega city, but indirectly and directly over millions of people on this planet at the disposal as a biotope for terrestrial mankind. We can see how dangerous and recklessly the sciences proceed when under the control of war experts.

This also provides us with the confirmation of why “Flying Saucers” have not ceased to fly. Their early warnings have been confirmed!

Divine COMMANDMENTS do not count according to the sciences, because they do not believe in these COMMANDMENTS. For as long as they are unable to find, to analyse and to measure GOD, he does not exist for them either.

Extra-terrestrials told us that terrestrial religions are unfortunately unbelievable, respectively unreliable. This is verified over and over again. A nun was caught stealing for a warehouse only yesterday. What can one expect from others if this sort of thing happens?

To blame is the general disinterestedness and indifference of the masses who show no interest whatsoever in spiritual truths and problems. A football match is infinitely more interesting and more important than a spiritual insight. Clear cut supernatural phenomena of absolute conclusiveness are simply called “hallucinations”.

One is talking about the necessity of a revolution everywhere. Isn't it about time for the sciences to be revolutionised?

The human and the divinely inherited logic should be applied and taken into consideration by all war experts.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

August 1970

Psychiatry is pursuing the wrong path. This faculty will never be able to correctly assess the human soul (psyche) for as long as it does not acknowledge the realm of the spirit. This mistake is extremely deplorable. The fact that psychologists are not even familiar with the works and the research results of psychiatrist Dr. Wickland is indeed incredible. They actually possess no knowledge in regards to psychic research.

- This ignorance in regards to supernatural PHENOMENA has catastrophic consequences, because thousands of possessed people are diagnosed with suffering from “schizophrenia”, ergo falsely assessed and treated.

These circumstances are very tragic and they could certainly be avoided. In the name of all these unfortunate people we ask psychiatry to finally pay attention to the truth! Let us take a case that was aired in the Third Program of the Westdeutschen Fernsehens (German TV station) as an example: A young woman felt that GOD had abandoned and damned her. She believed that the devil had taken control over her and that she was supposed to have a child by the devil. To feel damned like this is monstrous in human terms. No physician is able to lift this feeling of damnation and the representatives of Churches are also not able to do so. Psychiatry that was dealing with the case declared that her mental illness was based on a “sexual desire” and relegated this abnormality into the realm of the subconscious.

What does the reality look like?

We immediately recognised what was going on. Base spirits approached a suitable psychic human object in order to perform their evil deeds. This woman became clairaudient and was able to hear and to understand these malicious spirits. These negative spirits convinced her of her self-damnation and suggested that she was under the power of the devil.

- Every human being is subconsciously influenced by otherworldly INTELLIGENCES to a higher or lesser degree.

This woman was however consciously influenced, ergo consciously possessed. There exist not only suggestion from one living human being to another, but also very dangerous suggestions from those living in the hereafter to those living in the here and now. This woman said that she was unable to convince a physician that these thoughts of damnation did not stem from her. This is the confirmation that we correctly assessed this illness. This woman had no inkling of the superlative cussedness that can be found in the hereafter. She is completely inexperienced in regards to the supernatural and she only knows the Bible and the adjudications of the Church. In the meantime she believes everything her possession spirits persuade her to believe. She did not manage to muster an inner resistance and this negated all psychiatric endeavours. Dr. Wickland was able to exorcise evil spirits with the help of his medium. But it doesn't always have to involve a medium:

- It sometimes suffices to enlighten the victims of these spirits to activate a resistance, namely by telling them that they are duped in an outrageous fashion.

Experiencing clairaudience first hand gave this unfortunate woman the certainty that a supernatural VOICE talked to her. This is why her ignorance made her believe that GOD had really abandoned and condemned her. There is a plethora of such cases in a plethora of variations. Psychiatry simply ignores them.

Such cases are also described in the Bible – and theology also interprets them completely wrong. Abraham's battle with an “angel” who demanded that he sacrifice his son, was nothing else.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

September 1970

The research into the hereafter undoubtedly belongs with the rest of the natural sciences, but one has distanced oneself from it in the past, because the research into the hereafter contains lots of religious elements that cannot be separated from the scientific. One therefore left this sector to the Church to deal with, but it was however unable to master this field of knowledge. The knowledge the Church promotes stems from ancient traditions that one regards as sacrosanct and this gives them an aura of untouchability. Mistakes and aberrations reach all the way down to its dogmas.

- Genuine research into the hereafter can only be practised from point zero, because all religious traditions represent a great hindrance that cause one's inquiries to get stuck.

This is why the following biblical words self-fulfil: “One has to be like a child in order to recognise GOD.” – As the human spirit is like a computer, it requires the correct programming. It is however impossible to begin the correct programming if the rest of the false programming is not completely erased, it would otherwise inevitably lead to false results. The following development would be possible:

- The sciences must acknowledge research into the hereafter as a scientific field of knowledge and also try to investigate it. They may not resort to existing religious doctrines when doing this. Traditions and confessional concepts get in the way of researching the hereafter, because these dogmas and mistakes are carried beyond death into the hereafter.

- The truth demands courageous application without showing a craving for recognition in the process.
- Human mediums must be protected and they must not be exposed to ridicule if they fail.
- The acquired results do not belong to the Church, but are the property of the sciences and consequently the property of all of mankind.
- Scientists must however know that researching the hereafter deals with ENERGIES that can be unimaginably dangerous to those that experiment with them.
- Preconceived ideas are a hindrance, because they stem from study results that are completely inadequate and unsuitable for this field of knowledge.
- The research into the hereafter is a global affair and makes no distinction between races, nations or cast systems. It only deals with the realm of the here and now and the OTHERWORLDLY REALM, ergo with two spheres of existence human beings alternatively travel through.
- Objections expressed by psychologists are most of the time inapplicable here, because they are based on false starting points.
- The research into the hereafter is not there to explore the concept of GOD, but to explain people's life tasks.
- The evidence is found in the fact that human beings are presently the only functioning instruments the spirit can use in the here and now and the hereafter also. One can assume that a soul living in the hereafter cannot be called a "human being". What constitutes the "human being" part is the fleshy part that constructs itself from matter to then decay again.

All of these crucial points listed here stem from our experiences made during thousands of séances. We are convinced that they are trend-setting. A battle between pundits has to be avoided, because it prevents all genuine insights. The research into the hereafter deals with GOOD and EVIL.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

October 1970

Experienced psycho-scientists cannot comprehend that the knowledge in regards to the otherworldly EXISTENCES of man is abnegated in spite of all the achievements made by science and technology. Evidence of the personal survival of human beings is a lot easier and more valuable in comparison to the enormous developments in other fields of science and technology.

What are therefore the reasons for the ignorance in regards to such important knowledge?

It can not only be because of mediums, because there are plenty of them. There are also thousands of spiritual circles with lots of members that self-experienced practice managed to convince. The broader masses of the world's population is not correctly informed in spite of this. When laymen come into contact with spiritualism they recoil or they cannot grasp its expositions and doctrines. The basic knowledge to comprehend everything else is lacking. This doesn't just apply to laymen, but also to most scientists, because their assessment is not based on experience, but stems from their notions that also developed from school taught knowledge. The reality does however have nothing to do with school knowledge, because the SPIRITUAL SECTOR has only very little in common with physical matter.

There are difficult scientific subjects that the layman cannot comprehend in all their details, but he will not behave in a deprecatory fashion in spite of this, but rather accept the basics of it without demanding specific explanations. But the ignorance caused by the distrust in spiritualism, in the research into the hereafter, is so deeply anchored that it is wellnigh impossible to convince anybody of the spiritual facts. Enlightened people have endeavoured to inform their fellow men ever since Christianity came into being. Unfortunately with little success. Even the Churches are offside in regards to the OBJECTIVE TRUTH.

There is no doubt that we are dealing with an irresponsible lack of education in this respect. The results procured by spiritualism surpass all philosophies. Genuine messages represent knowledge's crowning glory.

One can say with certainty that spiritualism – in as far as it is genuine – should absolutely be a part of the general education of civilised people. If mankind would be familiarised from an early age with the basic rules of research into the hereafter, individual people would be able to comprehend the benedictory revelations instead of mocking them or to regard these doctrines and facts ridiculous nonsense.

The things that are part of people's general education is decided by pedagogues and scientists. It is there assignment to finally take positive steps here and above everything else, inform themselves from reliable sources. If this doesn't happen, ergo if everything remains as it is, this planet will end up in a state that can longer offer all of mankind a future.

Permanent peace can only be achieved through the truth. This is why the sciences must guarantee the objective truth. This subject matter is however so unprofitable that nobody can warm to it. But once spiritualism is a part of people's general education, it will become more lucrative, because the interest in the fantastic will go up.

Everyone must know what opinions they hold dear when they discard their terrestrial body one day.

November 1970

Schizophrenia still plays a major role. This denotation is applied to what's called a split personality. The general concept of "Schizophrenia" is unfortunately also applied in cases where one is actually dealing with a case of possession. A hallucination produced by one's consciousness may not be confused with a psychic process. Most neurologists are completely ignorant and at the same time inexperienced in this sector.

Persecution complexes and religious delusions play a specific role.

As scientists are not willing to believe in spirits, they assume that all abnormal processes are produced within man's consciousness due to malfunctions. This is a regrettable mistake! Roaming spirit beings have sufficient motives to approach people in order to torment them. Those so afflicted are then falsely diagnosed by physicians and simply declared schizophrenics.

Experienced spiritualists know better: They are familiar with the machinations of evil spirits. But patients affected by these spirit beings do not know these machinations, because their education provided them with completely different concepts about life after death or about heaven and hell.

There are still no absolute standards for these possessions. They are always different. But the intentions of these spirit beings are always the same:

- It is about destroying the personality of a human individuum.

Just to give you an example: Let us assume that a pious person is haunted by a base spirit being. This person can get into communicating contact with a spirit being due to his particularly strong psychic sensitivity. He hears his TORMENTOR who pretends to be somebody else, either an "ANGEL" or "GUARDIAN ANGEL" or some other famous dead personality. Well, their impertinence might even stretch to where these THOUGHT BEARERS call themselves "JESUS" or 'GOD'. At any rate, they give commands that must ultimately lead to an asylum.

If the medium refuses to carry out the given assignments, the spirits threaten. These threats are so powerful that one has to ask oneself how this is actually possible in the hereafter. A spirit might for instance say to the medium: "Do you want to disobey GOD?" – But if he pretends to be GOD, he might also say: "I, your CREATOR demand that you..." (To do this or to do that). "Woe to you if you don't obey me!" – An inexperienced person will break down under such threats, because he knows all too well that these VOICES are not his own thoughts.

All of this are things that physicians and neurologists hardly know anything about, as these experiences are not taught at universities, because one does not believe them. All the many patients who receive the wrong treatment suffer the consequences. All of this takes place in a century where man stepped on the Moon!

To put it very succinctly: To neglect these spiritual experiences is criminal!

Possessions were already falsely assessed in biblical times. When Abraham was asked to sacrifice his son, he must undoubtedly have received this assignment from a possession spirit, one that pretended to be "GOD". Abraham believed in GOD and obeyed the command. It is a virtual miracle that the murder of his child was prevented. But the Churches also believe in this falsely interpreted infamy of a damned spirit being.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

December 1970

Academic science has kept its distance from all spiritual insights up to now. They claimed –in spite of evidence to the contrary – that everything was still unproven. One persisted with the opinion: "We are dealing with an enigma."

The enormous progress in technology is now pushing the door to the supernatural open. The things the sciences were unable to explain – but what practicing spiritualists and spiritists have known for a long time – is now being explored and verified with the help of technology. The daily press already reports about this.

A lot of experiments were made in the search for communication channels suitable for communicating with aliens. One absolutely wanted to make contact with people from other planets. Pure “chance” – as always – led to completely new discoveries and insights.

The sensation-causing experiments by Dr. Konstantin Raudive produced enormous results. He developed a super receiver that does indeed not only make the voices of extra-terrestrials audible, but that represents a telephone to the hereafter. This is undoubtedly the greatest sensation of the century. One will surely further develop and duplicate this instrument. Hitting the bullseye like that will surely wipe all weak excuses off the table. We are not dealing with a “ventriloquist” here, something one wanted to accuse the genius Edison of. The Psychophon is incorruptible. A scientist might come of the idea that this instrument can only “read subconscious thoughts”, but these absolutely serious experiments will verify the opposite. A new dawn is rising for spiritualism!

It now begins to get really interesting, because we are faced with monstrous things. All endeavours undertaken on the field of research into the hereafter up to now will be verified through technology. This will show all our messages in the right light.

- Otherworldly ENTITIES told us via the Psychophon that they will participate with enthusiasm.

Engineers should however not imagine that contact with the hereafter is that simple. It represents a telephone that doesn't just ring in heaven, but also rings in hell. According to our opinion it would be advisable to include experienced spiritualists. We know from experience that one has to be careful when dealing with hell!

At any rate, a congress has already been called into being in order to discuss this invention. The Vatican sent an observer. Major radio producing factories are also interested. The company Telefunken ordered one of their engineers, namely Mr. Rudolph, a high-frequency technician, to attend this congress. All of this looks very promising and it will surely represent the hardest blow against the Dialectic Materialism.

To contemplate the consequences makes a claim on one's full imagination.

Woe to Church doctrines!

The whole affair has already a name and it is simply called: VOICE-research.

One does indeed make the assertion that there are no suitable mediums in Europe, but this assertion is already refuted by our own activities. The invention of the Psychophon is not an April fool hoax, it deals with real facts and they will influence our future. What will governments have to say about this? They will say: Will it be possible to put this instrument in the service of the sinews of war? – The devil would applaud this.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

January 1971

As spiritualism is not taught at universities, but Dialectic Materialism is, it comes as no surprise that a lot of physicians and scientists, in particular psychologists, express negative views in regards to spiritualism, exactly the way they were taught.

The Christian religion draws its canons from the lore of the Bible, whilst spiritualism draws its doctrines from NEW-REVELATIONS. Confessional religions teach theoretical views to a higher or lesser degree, whilst spiritualism can look back on a practical history that goes back thousands of years.

The Bible narrates great phenomena no explanations can be found for. These phenomena or events were therefore only explainable, respectively interpretable, with the help of the religions of the time. The same phenomena would not impress the public to the same degree these days, it would be also less likely that they would be explained away as divine miracles. This still applied to the UFO miracle at Fatima, but today's technology has advanced to a degree these days where such explanations are no longer acceptable.

Our scientific contacts and researches established that almost all of these biblical miracles were cases of UFO contacts, UFO sightings or based on psychic gifts. CHRIST was in any case a knower, one who discovered the truth through self-experience. He was impeccably clairaudient and also an automatic writing medium. He could go into a trance and his body was able to levitate. But it is wrong to assume that CHRIST personified GOD. Possessing divine gifts does not make you GOD. Clairaudience, psychic (automatic) writing, spiritual healing, levitation and telepathy are still possible these days.

Academic science can of course not accept that these biblical miracles are of divine origin. But this is not reason to reject and to dismiss these important traditions; one has to interpret and explain them correctly. To simply reject these miracles is unscientific. Youth, respectively students have a right to be correctly indoctrinated and informed. To ridicule this right across the board does not help the issue.

In our brochure "Veritas Vincit" we correctly explained the biblical miracle on Mount Sinai. We did the same with the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah. All the translations and the dissemination of this protocol in other countries bear witness that one is interested in a logical depiction of the miracles in the Bible. A lot of authors made our stimulations in this regards the subject matter of their work. A lot of thank-you notes reached us from abroad.

It is about time that the sciences deal with the Dialectic Materialism in a serious way, because they are dealing with a human error whose devastating consequences are revealed on a daily basis. The sciences must compare the Dialectic Materialism with the miracles in the Bible, but not the way the Churches have interpreted and adopted them, but in a fresh interpretation according to scientific and technological experiences. This will allow the LIGHT to finally shine on Earth.

Dumb people laugh.

Wise people contemplate.

Ignorance and brutishness manages to bring books on the market that already assert in their preface that human beings are GOD and that the idea of life after death was just one of their arrogant illusions. (See under new publications of the Orion-Heimreiter-Buchdienst: "Ein Autor im Dienst der negativen Mächte". 'An author in the service of negative powers')

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

February 1971

We discussed spiritualism with scientists. Doing this we ascertained that there is absolutely no basic knowledge there in this respect. All their questions betrayed an incomprehensible dilettantism, one that was adopted from way in the past. We tried to provide them with absolutely credible evidence, but all they said was:

"All very interesting, but one can also interpret this differently."

Everything can naturally be interpreted differently. It all depends on one's intentions, rather whether one is prepared to accept something or not. If the intention is there to begin with to not admit GOD'S existence, there is no evidence in the whole wide world in this respect that would find acceptance. All human beings are therefore forced to orientate themselves. This orientation however requires quite some knowledge about spiritualism. There is presently no textbook that would be suitable to list here as a standard.

We at least managed to get things to a point these days where parapsychological institutes are established in various countries. The question is whether these institutes might already have managed to establish that a spiritual realm exists and that the human soul survives its physical disembodiment? But nothing has been forthcoming so far. There are indeed a few standard works that are excellent, but they can still not be regarded as text material. It is therefore quite obvious that one will not accept a truth, because it offends certain norms that the sciences acquired. If spiritualism was scientifically accepted, it would have to be taught at universities. This would however be so reforming that one shows the greatest possible antipathy towards such reforms.

The truth would guide the whole world in a different direction.

Something that could cause so much damage must never eventuate; because if the sciences would have to change all their thought processes, ergo admit that they have been wrong for millennia, they would suffer a loss of prestige that would be difficult to imagine.

The situation is as follows: Eminent mediums are perfectly capable of furnishing evidence of life after death under all possible and available controls. But this claim would not suffice to make the sciences publicly admit this fact. This would be a heresy in regards to the basic concepts of empirical science. One therefore looks for an interpretation of these phenomena that circumvents the facts. One is inclined to say: "We admit that such phenomena exist, but they could be produced by living human beings, that is to say, human beings that are no longer alive have nothing to do with it. The medium might not commit a direct fraud, but it acts automatically on a subconscious level."

Every experienced spiritualist knows that this interpretation is a weak excuse. The public is unfortunately not in a position to test such excuses. It is basically the same as when a doctor tells his patient: "You are no longer alive. You only imagine that you are. In the eyes of science, you are already dead."

To not to admit that spiritualism tells the truth in a lot of instances is an unwritten law. This attitude is not actually taught at universities, but everyone's behaviourism at universities programs students in this way. Fraud, derision and conceit are arguments set against this. Spirits are superstitious figures, the kind one sees in 'Tunnels of Horror' at country-fairs.

When technology forces the sciences to review their thought processes one day – the repercussions will be enormous.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

March 1971

The sciences know that there are an incredible large number of optical illusions. The rising and the setting of the Sun are also such illusions. But a very dangerous illusion exists in regards to the functions of the brain. The time is surely ripe to recognise that when it comes to the brain, we are dealing with a relay, one that establishes the connection with the COSMOS of the SPIRIT.

- To flatly dismiss spiritual phenomena as superstitions does not constitute genuine research and it is unscientific into the bargain.

Physical matter with its practical and glorious emergencies prevents people from further contemplations. One was better aware of the effects of otherworldly spirit phenomena in biblical times than the sciences are today. The plethora of evidential material is enormous, but it is unfortunately hardly or not given any attention to.

Just how much one still gropes in the dark is verified by something that took place in Teneriffe only just recently: A sectarian was allegedly charged by "GOD" with killing the members of his family in order to save mankind. He promptly executed this "assignment". No scientist can make sense of this. Nobody can explain this horridness that was apparently carried out in GOD'S name.

What kind of insanity lurks behind this?

If "experts" would know a little more about spiritualism there would be no racking one's brain at all about this deed. We would like to help here somewhat, because we are better experienced in this field of knowledge. We are dealing with disciples of Jakob Lorber, people who fanatically believe in Lorber's teachings. They individually meditated so intensively that they became clairaudient and established direct contact with the hereafter. But the hereafter also has a very negative side, one that is virtually murderous. Everything in the realm of the spirit is superlative, that is to say, so enhanced that EVIL also remains incomprehensible to us. This clairaudient person received his "divine assignment" from this SPHERE.

It is hardly conceivable that there are still sectarians and disciples around these days that do not know that GOD'S name is abused by fallen spirits. We often reported about this. Abraham was already hoaxed in this way in his days. The representatives of the Church even believe nowadays that GOD wanted to tempt Abraham to sacrifice his son. Abraham also became a victim of hoaxing spirits, but he didn't execute the devilish assignment, whilst this dreadful act happened in Teneriffe.

The most insidious acts of insanity are committed because of some supernatural inducement. (Running amok is also part of this!) But what kind of sentence will the medical examiner and the judge pass? How else is to blame?

How many calamities take place in this world because the Churches are not able to correctly indoctrinate their followers!

How many calamities take place in this world because the sciences are not capable of exploring this subject!

- There are no divine assignments that trespass against COMMANDMENTS and LAWS! All of these assignments stem from damned, base spirits who ply their destructive trade on human beings on behalf of the devil.

Due to a complete ignorance of the truth, this fact is interpreted as a fairy tale or a superstition. This does however have nothing to do with superstition, it is actually verified through the experiences of millions of people. All the spirit cults on Earth mainly deal with the defence against evil spirits that influence the lives of terrestrial human beings.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

April 1971

The sciences endeavour with all available means to explore the origin of man. The achieved results are remarkable. But as these investigations only concentrate on the physical side of man, the actual more important part of man, namely man's spiritual functions remain in darkness, ergo occult.

When tracing back the construction elements of a human being one detected the minutest of parts that, in spite of their incredible minuteness, have an important role to fulfil. Scientists in the Soviet Union have undoubtedly made the greatest contribution. A. I. Oparin, in Moscow conspicuously dealt with the natural development of life in general. But the soul is neither mentioned nor a part of this; it is still ignored, because it seems to be the great taboo within the sciences.

Mankind allegedly descended from apes. The latest research results however show that man's set of chromosomes deviates from that of apes. However, one has to assume that this set of chromosomes is particularly decisive in regards to inheritance, that is to say, in regards to the development of human beings.

Even though one has recognised that the deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA) is the most important gene, the bearer of all construction-information, the all-important question of who the INFORMER is remains unanswered. All serious scientists may not pass this question by. They must not just pursue this newly discovered chain of information, but also detect the bridge between the INFORMER and the receiver of this information.

No scientist engaged in researching the human existence (biology) will be able to avoid the question of who this INFORMER could be. What one should call HIM is absolutely inconsequential, what is of importance is the only possible answer, namely that one is dealing with GOD, the PLANNER, the CREATOR of LIFE. But as the INFORMER (the DNA) is a SPIRIT, a CONSCIOUSNESS, one will not find HIM with an electronic microscope. HE can only be investigated and acknowledged through his FUNCTION.

The Soviet Union's Dialectic Materialism erroneously asserts that consciousness is tied to matter. Consciousness is however the informer that dominates the whole apparatus called "human being". The mistake of the above mentioned assertion is plainly refuted through the existence of telepathy, because what could a thought possibly cling to if it is able to penetrate everything? This evidence was actually furnished by the Russians themselves. In spite of this enormous insight, the Communist Party would however never entertain the thought that its "Dialectic Materialism" would have to be amended.

If looking for comparisons in regards to how human beings came into being, one has to remember that every design and creation must be preceded by a thought. Meaning that: Mother Nature cannot manage without thoughts! Ergo:

- If the physical brain is man's bearer of thoughts, all of creation must analogically be GOD'S bearer of thoughts.

The human soul therefore also possesses a brain that is capable of seeking out the COSMIC CONTENT, respectively it's individual RESERVOIR.

- There is a spiritual COUNTERPART (model) of every human being as well as of every other creature. According to the INFORMATION coming from that sentient MODEL, the INFORMATION reaches the carrier of information, the DNA. A direct connection exist between the MODEL (soul) and the physical instrument, one that can only be disconnected after the disembodiment, after what's called death.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

May 1971

When talk turns to life after death, scientists or academics very quickly produce their programmed prejudices. They immediately think of fraud or superstitions. Serious researchers into the spiritual gain no advantage in regards to financial gains. On the contrary – they have to spend money most of the time. Fraud is certainly out of the question, because there is no money in it. Superstition must not be confused with other definitions. Supernatural things can take place that are however falsely interpreted. A lot of events have for instance been wrongly interpreted and recorded in the Bible. These "miracles" took indeed place, but all of them were due to natural causes. But one must not misjudge the divine mission of extra-terrestrials, nothing has changed there to this very day. The "Gods" of the past are still the "Gods" of today, this difference being that one knows more about space-travel these days.

To have to relinquish their beloved "miracles" is a hard pill to swallow for the Churches, because they constituted the foundation of their faith. They find it difficult to change from one religion to a true religion, one that could change the whole view of the world.

The para-psychologist Professor Hans Bender gave this answer in an interview:

"With the so-called moving glass (An option to contact the hereafter) I observed that the answers received through this exercise – an authority (spirit) was questioned – were not known to the participants."

We see here that a scientist like Mister Bender avoids using the word “spirit”, even though a spirit is involved in the discussion. Where is the honesty here in this report?

Here is a personal experience concerning this with our medium Uwe Speer. We were asked a few years ago to conduct a séance outside of our devotional room. We were then still at the beginning of our endeavours and research and this means that we used the “moving glass” option once in a while. We were however kept in the dark about the fact that plain-clothed policemen were present, probably there to find us guilty of fraud. We never ever asked for money for the work that we do, but people still never believed in the genuineness of our contacts. Questions were asked and they were answered through the “moving glass”. The whole thing was based on writing with a glass that moved from one letter to another letter of the alphabet.

The circle of people present was strictly controlled whilst the medium wrote. One of the policemen, he had not been introduced as such, suddenly demanded that the medium should be blindfolded. He then convinced himself that it was impossible to see through the thick bandage. Whilst putting his question and waiting for answers by means of the movements of the glass, he quickly and quietly turned the alphabet board around so that the letters were completely differently arranged. In spite of this measure, unknown to the medium, it continued to write unperturbed and this still resulted in meaningful answers. This also surprised the street-smart policeman and he really should not have found a reason to suspect a fraud. All he said was:

“I will get behind this trick too and I guarantee you that I will be able to do this in a month or two also.”

We never ever heard from him again. He might still be practising this as we speak.

Such cases are not a rarity and tests and investigations have not abated. They fill large books, like for instance the protocols of Dr. Mattiesen. - We hold the opinion that a scientist who does not believe in the survival of the soul does not have an opportunity to inform himself about this.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

June 1971

Just how infinitely long has it taken the sciences to decide to include parapsychology as a university science, that is to say, one did not incorporate it as such, but accepted it as an associated “para-science”? High school teachers are charged with investigating phenomena with great care, but to avoid verifying spiritualism in the process. The word “GOD” is also totally factored out from university’s domains. They say that it is not the task of this associated science to verify GOD’S existence, that this was part of the area of responsibility of the Church. This is how the situation is at the present time and this puts all para-sciences in chains.

Let’s assume that a phenomenon takes place that one cannot find any other explanation for than that one is dealing with a supernatural manifestation. (Comment: Such phenomena have repeatedly taken place.) What can a salaried and acknowledged scientist say but:

“I admit that this phenomenon took place, it is not a fraud, but it has nothing to do with anything supernatural.”

But if he were to say:

“I ascertained that this phenomenon was manipulated from the realm of the spirit in order to convince us of its existence.”

Such an announcement would be akin to a resignation from his job, because he would lose his post as a professor or he would be encouraged to work somewhere else. Every reader will realise that it is quite impossible to progress one step by acting in such a manner. Para-science can make all possible endeavours – but of what use are they if an unwritten law prohibits the acknowledgment of the truth.

Private research is free from such things, but it does not enjoy the advantage of scientific acknowledgments. This is very unfortunate in regards to finding the truth, because the public will blindly accept all scientific judgments. Only the things academic sciences say has pertinence, everything from private sources is regarded with scepticism.

There is however literature available all over the world published by so-called esoteric publishers. Mankind would actually have an opportunity here to orientate itself factually. But this is also not the case, because esoteric or psycho-scientific essays and articles are formulated in such a way that no layman can understand them. Those with no prior preparatory training feel like little boys confronted by higher mathematics. Even well-known and brilliant physicians, with immense scientific experiences, verified to us that they didn't understand one iota of the psycho-scientific evidence and they had no inkling that para-science actually existed. But they still hold with the general assertion:

“The whole subject can also be interpreted differently.”

The material at the disposal of universities in regards to para-science is extremely deficient and of a negative nature most of the time anyway. If one therefore holds the opinion that this field of knowledge does not play an important role in our lives, one makes an absolute mistake.

- This field of knowledge decides over our whole existence on this planet, before and after our demise. Well, the Earth's whole viability also depends on it. Besides, we can receive insights from the other side that can save us from having to experiment for years to come.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

July 1971

Our endeavours are not designed to entertain, but to support the sciences. We endeavour to publicise our experiences as comprehensible as possible.

The “moving glass” (Ouija board) is a well-known form of communicating with the hereafter. Professor Dr. H. Bender (para-psychology) also arrived at para-psychology through the writing with a glass. But he writes the following about psychic writing:

“Some people, so-called automatons or writing mediums, can spontaneously and meaningfully write without conscious guidance and the “messages” from their subconscious even surprise them. The deliverance of subconscious contents also takes place through the glass the participants placed their fingers on, as it moves from letter to letter. The ego-alien character of this automatic production leads to a situation where they are “misinterpreted” as “messages from spirits”.

All readers of our Menetekel brochures will immediately recognise just how enormously wrong so-called experts of para-psychology can be, even though they believe to know more than experienced spiritualists who practiced all their life. One has to know in regards to this:

- That these messages can be recorded in a foreign language, even though none of the participants have command of this language.
- Items, like for instance weapons or jewellery, are drawn from centuries past and never seen before by any of the circle's participants.
- Names of places were mentioned, unknown up to then but still connected to some event. We for instant received a message that mentioned that a GUARDIAN ANGEL lived in a small village in Spain during his last life on Earth and that he died from cholera there. We went in search of this village and read about its history. This village was indeed ravaged by cholera and the year that was mentioned was also correct. Such cases are not a rarity.

We have the evidence that an academic title does not automatically crown a high carat scientist.

We are unfortunately not in a position to publish a book that gives all the details of the available evidence that the spiritual concept is correct. This book, respectively three such books, were however penned by Dr. Emil Mattiesen. His work covers everything.

Did Professor Bender never observe an experiment that is called "Cross"? This experiment produces a message that cannot be interpreted, because the code for it is missing. This code is however communicated via a medium in another country or another continent. These medium naturally do not know one another and they have no idea what this message is for. Is there a possibility of misinterpretation here?

When I, Viktor Speer, was in England I received a message from a London medium that contained a statement in regards to our work. The medium did not know me and it had never seen me before, because the medium was blind. It addressed me just the same, even though it could not have known that I was amongst the attendees. It talked about our SPIRIT GUIDES and it conveyed greeting from them. It furthermore talked about a ship and it described it in detail. This ship was drawn simultaneously by our own medium Uwe Speer in Berlin during a séance. Is there a possibility of misinterpretation here?

In regards to misinterpretations; it is undoubtedly present with numerous scientifically qualified "know-it-all". Such experiments must undoubtedly be carried out with respect and humility, but where do we find these traits amongst scientists?

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

August 1971

When perusing any encyclopaedia one continuously finds some doubtful statements in regards to the concept of "spirits". Spirit allegedly means ghost, that is to say, the ghost or the soul of somebody who died. The word "allegedly" is never far away. This is quite incomprehensible to an experienced researcher in this field of knowledge. There aren't just millions of pieces of evidence for the personal survival of the human soul, but also a considerable amount of expert literature throughout the world that deal with this evidence.

The majority of mankind is completely ignorant in this respect. One allows oneself to be strictly guided by the assessments of science here also, but it is apparent that the experts amongst the scientists avoid this evidence. This does not happen without reason: One is all too aware of one's own negative behaviour and therefore rejects all criticism – and as the WORLD of the SPIRIT exacts strict criticism, one simply rejects the fact that this AUTHORITY actually exists.

The situation is similar with the Church, it too doesn't take kindly to criticism, least of all from souls from the hereafter. The Church makes no statements in regards the hereafter whatsoever. Inscriptions on gravestones are prescribed and bear witness to the ignorance about such an important issue. It states for instance: "I know that you enjoy the security of eternal peace". Any comment is superfluous here.

We attempted to fathom this behaviourism. We managed to ascertain that general science is not willing to make an objective statement. What remains is a yes and no and this is something mankind cannot do anything with. The Churches behave in the exact same manner.

- This behaviourism, it has been around for millennia, encouraged the formulation of political philosophies that have degenerated into monstrous crimes against humanity.

There are isolated cases where eminent scientists of renown do not share the masses' views that mainly assesses things based on prejudices and preprogramed phrases.

The sciences have never been able to verify conscious activities within physical matter. The "Soviet Dialectic Materialism" presumes the opposite in spite of this. The masses however do not contemplate this and they are also not capable of recognising and branding this assertion for what it is, namely a brazen lie.

The human brain is not the place where thoughts, contemplations and the conscious awareness of feelings are produced. There is neither a super-consciousness nor a sub-consciousness in the brain, because human beings are "remote-controlled robots" controlled by spirit, respectively controlled by a soul. There is manifold evidence available to verify this fact, but the general public does unfortunately have no knowledge of this. The human ego-consciousness resides in the cosmos. It consists of OSCILLATIONS.

Rebellious young people also have no knowledge of this fact, because universities conceal this momentous evidence, respectively do not conduct any kind of research of their own. Students would otherwise behave completely differently.

Medicine is aware that the brain is not the central station of one's consciousness. One dissected the brain of highly intelligent people after their demise, opened their cranium to find that there was no longer a brain inside. There are hundreds of such cases! These cases on their own should have sufficed to open the sciences' eyes. Drug addicts experience the exit of their soul from their body. One calls this condition a "trip". This should also suffice.

Universities set standards, respectively promote formulas. Researchers and scientists work with these standards or formulas. They naturally help them to make progress, but there are elemental things of enormous importance that are not taught at universities, because one omitted to secure standards for them. Magic and all of occultism are a part of this.

It is a well-known fact that these subjects contain a plethora of nonsense and superstitions. Even major and widespread journals are no exception, because they have no control over it. We receive the most incredible aerial fancies about alleged FATHER and MOTHER mediums on a daily basis and all of them swear that they have a connection to CHRIST, to GOD and his most eminent ANGELS. But the threats and praises verify the lowest of the low human thought processes. All pious ado is absolute evidence of hair-raising nonsense. We maintained contact over many years based strict scientific principles in order to be able to correctly assess this. These mediums, those that feel “chosen” and “enlightened” are pitiable victims of base spirits who take advantage of the weaknesses of these mediums.

What can the sciences possibly do with all this nonsense?

Science has up to now only smiled or turned it nose up when faced with this, but this does not promote advancement at all. Something must be done and part of this is the correct assessment of such negative spin-offs. It is important that the sciences use the works of Dr. Emil Mattiesen as a guideline to begin with. Furthermore the results from England are also important. Last but not least, the Soviets also made great strides in the field of experimental parapsychology.

We must severely reproach academic science because: It makes the mistake of having created prejudices that are tabled every time a psychic phenomenon is mentioned. All we can say is, if opinions are pre-programmed in such a way, that its behaviourism is absolutely unscientific. The evidence: The sciences distance themselves from all kinds of magic, because their prejudices tell them that they are dealing with superstition. Besides, genuine magic is equated with variety-show magic. The damage caused by science and the scientific insights it forfeits is beyond comprehension.

And then there are the Churches who stand on the lowest rungs of the ladder of HIGHER INSIGHTS. Their supposed representatives of the truth lift a threatening finger and say: “Leave the spirits rest in peace, because it is written in the Bible!” The Churches do however not have the evidence to prove that this nonsense has validity.

The extra-terrestrials in contact with us, willing to help mankind, emphasise that magic in particular is the FORCE that helped them achieve their enormous progress.

- When today’s scientists ask the question of how extra-terrestrial deal with the problem of having to conquer the vast distances of space, there is only one answer: With the help of magic.
- When dealing with questions about solving the problem of gravity and anti-gravity, the answer is the same: With the help of magic.
- Medicine is also included in this, because actual healings take place with the help of magic.

This should suffice for now, it was only mentioned to show what one has been missing and what has to be absolutely remedied.

When dealing with the question of the survival after death, the answer is immediately connected to the concept of the “soul”. But all of mankind on Earth is beholden to the sciences in this respect, because religion cannot explain or verify the soul sufficiently. The sciences completely rejected all research into the hereafter not too long ago, but this enigma gradually opens up with the help of para-psychology.

The Soviet Union dissociated itself for political reasons from the concept of a surviving soul through the dissemination of its “Dialectic Materialism”. But the Soviet Union in particular has undertaken basic experiments with the soul, namely with attempts at telepathy. These experiments, carried out under the strictest conditions of care and accuracy and attempted across thousands of kilometres, were successful! – But the consequences of these results are kept a secret.

It is generally known that “Dialectic Materialism” penned the thesis that consciousness is tied to physical matter and that it can therefore not exist without it. This was the coup de grace in regards to the survival of the soul. Telepathy has however been scientifically verified. This conclusion is not doubted by the Russians either, they actually verify it.

Telepathy is the transference of thoughts. Thoughts are transferred across immense distances from one consciousness to another. They penetrate through material and they even continue where electrical barriers are installed. Thoughts are undoubtedly a component of consciousness, actually the most important component of the human consciousness. Thoughts are therefore demonstrably not tied to physical matter and they can exist very well outside of physical matter; they would otherwise be unable to move from place to place. They even enter other consciousness’s where they are registered.

- Soviet scientists have thereby managed to refute their own thesis!

A thesis rates higher than a theory, because it is an assertion and not an assumption. Lots of further assertions were developed by the “Soviet Russian Dialectic Materialism” in connection with this thesis and they are therefore just as senseless and untrue.

The book “Soviet Russian Dialectic Materialism” has been paid for and published in millions of exemplars by the party and disseminated throughout the whole world. This actually completely refuted mistake has however been embraced by millions of students throughout the world and triggered lots of sympathies and concordant actions. This is how atheism has been promoted in such an incredible fashion.

Question: What do the sciences intent to do in this respect?

Once such an elemental mistakes that has been made it is the sacred duty of scientists to admit this mistake and publish its correction also in millions of exemplars throughout the world and table it for discussion, particularly at universities. This is the only way the mass derailment of young people can be rectified.

- The SOUL is the most important, immortal component of human beings. People would sink to the lowest level of the lowest of animals without it, well even to the level of vegetative life.

The Churches must also endeavour to bring about the correction of these mistakes! They have the power and the means to do so.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

November 1971

We constantly see academics make immediate assessments that are not based on experience, but based on their academic training. This is why psycho-scientific research depends on private initiatives.

- Possible failures are not so much the fault of human mediums, but rather more the fault of those that experiment, because they do not deal with mediums correctly.

The research into the hereafter must abide by certain LAWS that are different from our physical legalities. Our long-term research gave us enormous opportunities of observation, something no scientist can record, because we are always dealing with the same mediums and they are part of my family, they work in an honorary capacity and are not professionally involved in psycho-scientific research. These observation give us an immaculate picture of the hereafter and its DENIZENS.

But a lot of many important odds and ends that are of great importance just the same, are unfortunately not easily published, because a lot of drawings, charts and photos would have to be included. To establish such an overview is simply impossible due to our limited financial means. It is therefore hard to comprehend that a science that represents the future of every human being is not furnished with finances even though billions are invested in the destruction and annihilation of mankind.

- Every one of our séances affects our soul, because we see the mistakes the world has adhered to for millennia. People's behaviourism would absolutely be more positive, if they were to comprehend that their consciousness survives death in an ethereal BODY.

Almost everybody's general knowledge has increased to a degree where biblical wisdoms or also other religious dogmas are no longer given credibility by their common sense. The sciences and technology are now asked to tidy up these incomprehensible and twisted religious views.

- Mankind requires a new RELIGION, a RELIGION of the TRUTH. The material for it is amply available and it is better and more comprehensible than the old traditions that have caused so much mischief.

Church representatives must finally make an effort to allow themselves to be indoctrinated by the sciences. We also include parapsychology in the sciences. The most important insight must be taken into consideration, namely that spirit is not made of physical matter. Those that imagine that the spirit has anything to do with matter will misdirect their thought processes. The fact that the spirit can make itself known through a medium is hard to comprehend, because not the slightest physical incident can be observed. With spirit materialisation the spirit only borrows something physical from the medium. There is therefore no such thing as spirit matter, but only a non-physical SPIRIT.

Serious-minded, experienced spiritualists are experts in their field and they rate higher than scientists in other fields of knowledge. Spiritual KNOWLEDGE has nothing to do with university knowledge, because universities are not in possession of the expert knowledge spiritualists and parapsychologists managed to acquire.

- Researching the hereafter cannot be conducted out of curiosity, it must be done with respect.

The mutual candour between the here and now and the hereafter is the key to the objective truth.

The Psychic Peace Circle continues to report its experiences

December 1971

The name “scientist” suggests that one is dealing with knowledgeable human beings, people with deep insights into the character and life of Mother Nature. But this isn’t quite correct, because all scientists are only competent within a very specific sector. Their mental capacity hardly reaches beyond this specific sector. The things they say about other phenomena are therefore not based on their own experiences or contemplation most of the time, it is often just a superficial opinion, one that fits in with their own view of the world. This fact severely restricts scientists, because they can only be really productive within a team. Scientists on their own are rather powerless.

Due to the fact that psycho-science has been seen as a ridiculous, unreal “hobby” up to now, the scientific and academic fraternity did not take it serious at all. One was only tolerant enough to not forbid it or even completely annihilate it.

CHRIST said: “Man does not live from bread alone.”

We realise more and more these days that we cannot cope without a healthy and reliable psycho-science. The sciences have already gone beyond the boundaries of the physical to thrust into the unknown. The word “occult” was a cuss word up to now. The sciences however find themselves in the midst of occultism, but rather helpless, because one didn’t pay too much attention to it. Even advanced technology, particularly electronics, makes no exception, it is also affected by occultism, even though one avoids mentioning this concept.

Research forces the sciences to reconsider some of its tenets and to stop relying on philosophers for a change. Eminent philosophers have been ardent supporters of scientific thought processes up to now. But now, as they are partially no longer as convincing, one has to look for other great thinkers, capable of making better judgments. But where do you find these experts in logic? – If they do not exist here on Earth one has to look for them elsewhere, beyond the physical plane. If one wants to tap their spirit one has to turn to the REALM of the SPIRIT.

There are great THINKERS in the HIGHER REGIONS of the realm of the spirit and they offer considerably more than all terrestrial philosophers combined. The ENTITIES possess greater experience and enormous farsightedness. They are not tied to a locality, they are invisibly represented everywhere and extremely well trained at GOD’S UNIVERSITY. These colossal THOUGHT BEARERS can be questioned! If one’s desire to be indoctrinated is of a genuine and positive nature one will receive information to all one’s questions. The sciences should turn to this SOURCE, because terrestrial thought processes have reached the limits of their capabilities to comprehend. The things that are required now are beyond the physical and no computer is capable of helping here.

“Occult” is a sacred word, the concept of “magic” also. This sector contains those insights that can help us progress. But these insights are also available beyond death, beyond all wars and human discrimination and cruelties.

- For as long as science deals with the destruction of mankind, and this also applies to technology, the SOURCES to spiritual progress remain closed. The door to this SOURCE can only be opened after a change of view and after recognising that the universe was not created by a GOD named coincidence, but by an eminent, unfathomable, intelligent POWER called GOD or the PLANER.
